

Jess Haynes Heads New Route 611 Businessmen's Group

Organization Takes Place; 17 Attend

A NEW organization, calling itself "The Progressive Businessmen's and Property Owners Association of Greater Stroudsburg", was formed last night at the Indian Queen Hotel.

Jess F. Haynes was elected chairman; Leslie C. Drake was named secretary and Edward C. Boushell was elected treasurer. There were 17 persons, including Drake who called the meeting, in attendance.

DRAKE PRESIDED at the meeting until officers were elected. In his introductory remarks, Drake told those in the meeting room, all of whom were identified as "611 businessmen", that:

"What every businessman needs is more traffic by his front door. When you take the traffic away you take the business away."

"I'd like to form a new organization to protect the interests of these businessmen from Foxtown Hill to the CLU park," Drake said, "to protect them from this movement to build a bypass for Route 611."

DRAKE NOTED that many organizations in Monroe County have gone on record approving a thruway outside of Stroudsburg, but, he said, "nothing has ever been said to protect us businessmen on Ninth St. who have our life's savings invested."

"Drake said he thought Stroudsburg's traffic congestion could be solved without altering Route 611. He offered a series of four proposals which, he said, would provide a solution. The proposals were:

ONE—Request all State officials not to consider a bypass for the Stroudsburg area until all facilities of Stroudsburg have been applied.

TWO—Request the Stroudsburg council to create a municipal authority to build and operate a parking building.

THREE—Recommend four lanes of traffic on Main St. from Fifth to Ninth and three lanes on S. Seventh and Park Ave., with middle lane reversible. Eliminate all left turns at Fifth, Seventh and Ninth on Main except 611 traffic and route 90 going north.

FOUR—Eliminate third position on traffic light at Fifth and Main. Hitting at the Stroudsburg "merchants' association" (apparently a reference to the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association), Drake said the "merchants association doesn't want to sacrifice any parking on Main St."

Borough Council, he declared, "has always gone along with them." Drake said he didn't "think we should use $10 million to bypass." He did not offer a source for his $10 million estimate.

"THERE ARE 50 spots in Pennsylvania right now that have the same troubles we have here in Stroudsburg," Drake said. "And all of them are trying to get the State to bypass them."

"If we can sell Harrisburg on the idea of spending its money somewhere else until we can get together," he said, the local situation might be better and 611 businessmen would "still have their traffic."

Stroudsburg Council, Drake said, is the "only group" which could put up a municipal parking lot. "You and I can't do it because we'd be at the mercy of the politicians. It has to be done by the council," he said.

A MAJOR improvement in present traffic problems, he said, could be made by outlawing left turns on Main St.

"If somebody comes down from Bushkill and wants to go south on 611, make him run around the block—don't let him make a left turn," he said.

The "tie-up at Fifth and Main," he continued, "is caused by the traffic light down there. You never see a cop down there or a councilman because they have no interest down there."

The supermarkets put the corner grocery stores out of business . . . until a few years ago," Drake declared. Lately, he said, the corner stores were getting business again.

"NOW A FEW selfish merchants on Main St. would like to get the business back there," he said.

Again declaring that he was for "more traffic" in Stroudsburg, Drake told the group:

"My bus line is in bad shape in this town here. I think if the merchants' association would promote a few more sales like these dollar days, I might stay a little further away from the sheriff."

Drake alleged "there are 88 people in business on 611 between Foxtown Hill and the CLU park and that's a majority of the people in business in Stroudsburg."

THIS GROUP of 88, he said, "includes most of the important ones in town except for about a half a dozen like Wyckoff's department store."

At this point Drake's introduction ended. He asked if "anyone else here wants to say anything."

George Lee, operator of Lee's Diner on Park Ave., promptly rose. Lee said he "agreed that we need a bypass" but that he felt the solution was to "take the highway

Housing Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House yesterday passed a compromise general housing bill after defeating a final Democratic effort to restore President Eisenhower's proposal to build 140,000 public housing units in four years.

The bill would permit a much more restricted public housing program—a maximum of 68,000 of the low-rent units over the next two years.

It would lower down payments on FHA loans and try to prevent further "windfall" profits such as disclosed in the recent housing investigation.

It would make many other changes which Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) said would encourage a building industry boom and provide for private construction of 1,250,000 to 1,400,000 new houses a year.

Builder Claims GOP Planned Powell Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New York builder testified yesterday that Clyde L. Powell was facing the political ax even before his connection with alleged irregularities in the Federal Housing Administration was made public.

David Muss told the Senate Banking Committee that the Republican National Committee had expressed interest in Powell's removal as assistant FHA commissioner in charge of rental housing—apparently so the post could be given to a Republican.

THE NATIONAL Committee said an extensive search of its correspondence files failed to locate a letter of the kind described by Muss. The New York man had told the committee he did not know who signed the letter and could not vouch for its authenticity, although he said it was on the National Committee's letterhead.

The committee reported later, however, that it had found a March 16 letter from former FHA Chief Guy T. O. Holliday saying Powell was expected to quit about April 1. Muss also had mentioned Holliday's letter as a reply to the original inquiry.

POWELL'S POLITICAL affiliation has never been brought out. He had served in the housing agency for 20 years, most of it under Democratic administrations.

Chou Endorses Pan-Asian Bloc

LONDON (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China called last night for a pan-Asian security bloc "to safeguard the collective peace of Asia."

Chou said in an interview with Morgan Phillips, British Labor party secretary, recorded in Geneva, that Asian nations should consult among themselves and assume "obligations mutually and respectively."

Chou aimed plainly at the grandstand in India with references to an "area of peace," a term often used by Prime Minister Nehru. He advocated a five-point Asian peace plan paralleling exactly the five points in the India-China pact on Tibet signed April 29.

Percy Reimer's Body Rises To Surface Of River After Being Under Water 86 Hours

DELAWARE WATER GAP—After 86 hours under water, the body of Percy Reimer, 43, Bangor RD 1, floated to the surface of the Delaware River off Point-of-Gap yesterday morning.

Reimer's body, object of one of this area's most intensive searches, came to the surface about 50 yards downstream from where he was spilled into the river when a rowboat upset Friday night.

Police Chief Fred Decker of this borough saw the end of the search from a vantage point on the Pennsylvania shore at 9:40 a. m. The chief had been directing search and dragging operations since Reimer disappeared.

DECKER SAID three boats were dragging. Only about 15 people watched from shore, in contrast to the hundreds who had lined the banks on both sides of the river to watch divers going down after the body Sunday.

In the boats were Samuel Hounshell, 35, Bangor RD 1, Reimer's friend and neighbor, and LeRoy LaBar, 32, East Bangor; George DeWitt, 20, and Eugene Eickhoff, 18, Portland; and Samuel and Cate Barr, 16 and 15, also of Portland. They had been among the first searchers, Decker said.

THE THREE BOATS moved slowly across the spot where the body was apparently fast in debris. One of the four drags must have jarred the body, Decker said. The three boats turned to start back again, still abreast.

It was at that moment that the body popped to the surface about 12 feet in front of the boats. The body was taken to the Pennsylvania shore.

Monroe County Coroner Charles H. Rushmore issued a verdict of accidental drowning. He said a mark on the dead man's temple was caused by the drag which loosened the body.

THE BODY was released to the Schmidt funeral home, Wind Gap.

Two people were rescued when the small craft upset Friday night. They were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Plattenburg, 800 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

The Plattenburgs said they knew Reimer only slightly. They said they were working on their row boat when Reimer approached and asked to be rowed across the river to Kittatinny Beach on the Jersey side. The Plattenburgs said they had no oars, but Reimer borrowed some oars and started to row the boat across, Mrs. Plattenburg told police, with the owners going along as passengers.

JUST BEFORE the accident, Mrs. Plattenburg told police, Reimer stood up. The boat upset and all three were thrown in the water. The Plattenburgs neither saw nor heard Reimer again. They clung to the swamped boat until rescued, they said. Reimer's brother said he could not swim.

Trapped Boy Reads Comics Until Rescued From Well

HOPEWELL JUNCTION, N. Y. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy trapped waist deep in a well cave-in for more than seven hours yesterday was rescued unhurt.

He read comic books while he waited to be freed.

THE YOUNGSTER, David Ronk, was helping to dig a well in the cellar of a farmhouse when he was half buried by the cave-in.

Deputy sheriffs and volunteers, directed by Robert Dossy, a state highway engineer, finally brought David up out of the 10-foot hole at 5:40 p. m.

Undamaged except for slightly swollen legs, the boy was put to bed.

THE YOUNGSTER himself remained in generally good spirits while trapped. At one point he told the workers:

"I'll kiss everybody when I get out."

Once he wept in fear as some additional dirt poured down on him. Later, in addition to comic books, he asked for pencils to draw pictures of a wooden barrel which had been placed around him as protection.

HE LUNCHED on sandwiches and coffee. As the day wore on he spoke of some pain in his legs. The boy was helping dig the well, about 10 feet deep and four feet wide, in the cellar of the Thomas Knapp farmhouse when the cave-in occurred about 10:30 a. m.

A call to the sheriff's office brought officers and other volunteer workers.

Cohn Resigns; Sen. McCarthy Shifts Surine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) yesterday reluctantly accepted the resignation of Roy Cohn as chief counsel of the Senate investigating subcommittee and transferred Donald A. Surine, another aide who has been under fire.

The moves came in advance of a showdown session of the subcommittee, a majority of whose members had demanded a staff "housecleaning."

Surine, a former FBI agent, was one of two McCarthy subcommittee assistants who have been refused clearance by the Defense Department to handle secret matters. The other, Thomas Lavenia, was kept in his post, at least temporarily.

McCarthy announced that Surine was being transferred from the post of assistant subcommittee counsel to McCarthy's Senate office payroll.

Praising Surine in a statement, McCarthy accused an unnamed Democratic committee member of using an affidavit of "a jailed white slaver in an attempt to discredit Mr. Surine." No details were given.

This maneuvering beat to the punch members of McCarthy's subcommittee bent on a staff shake-up. The upshot was that when six of the seven subcommittee members met over a steak lunch in the old Supreme Court chamber in the Capitol building there was nothing that could be done about firing Cohn or Surine.

And a decision on Lavenia was put off until a report comes in from the Defense Department regarding its refusal to grant him security clearance for handling secret correspondence.

McCarthy confirmed to reporters that both Surine and Lavenia have been refused such clearance. He said he has asked Secretary of Defense Wilson for the reasons the two men were not cleared. He added that he plans to seek Surine's return to the subcommittee staff when a reply comes in.

However, a spokesman at the Pentagon said the Defense Department would not give McCarthy any reasons for denying the clearances. The spokesman said Wilson has written McCarthy a letter explaining that the Defense Department's stand is based on confidential information.

Aside from Cohn, Surine and Lavenia, all the other 22 men and women on the staff were confirmed in their jobs by the subcommittee, including Chief of Staff Francis P. Carr. There had been reports Carr also was on the way out.

McCarthy said all the votes yesterday were unanimous. So the big blowoff over the staff failed to come off. Now, McCarthy said, he is going to continue an investigation of alleged Communists in defense plants.

Suspect Held In Slaying Of Girl, 18

JOLIET, ILL. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies last night seized a 40-year-old former mental hospital inmate in connection with the slaying of a pretty brunette high school girl.

The body of 18-year-old Doris Bogart was found early yesterday in an abandoned car in a lonely Lovers Lane north of the city. She had been shot twice.

Sheriff Roy Doerflinger identified the seized man as Anthony John Stefanich, a Joliet factory worker.

He was charged with murder. Deputies nabbed Stefanich as he tried to hide in a rubbish pit adjacent to the city. He was sought for questioning after the abandoned car was found to belong to him.

Blair Moody, Former U.S. Senator, Dies

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP)—Former U. S. Sen. Blair Moody died at 3:55 p. m. yesterday at University Hospital. He was 52. The death of the former Washington political writer came as a shock to his followers who had believed he was recovering from an attack of virus pneumonia and soon would resume his campaign for the Democratic nomination as U. S. senator in the August primary.

Only a few hours before, Moody's campaign headquarters had issued a statement reporting he was recuperating from his illness. The statement criticized the policies of Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson, who is unopposed for renomination.

Moody's death left Patrick V. McNamara of Detroit unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Moody's friends had contended since the start of the primary campaign that he would be the strongest Democratic candidate to beat Ferguson.

U. S. Officials Show Lack Of Enthusiasm For Provisions Of Indochina Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—A marked lack of enthusiasm was evident in high official circles yesterday as reports from abroad told of arrangements looking toward a cease-fire in Indochina.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were reported to have decided to delay any comment until they carefully studied all terms involved.

They obviously disliked the idea of a partition of Viet Nam which means Red rule for millions of people.

BUT THERE appeared every indication that, barring an unexpected hitch, Eisenhower and Dulles later would announce the government's readiness to "respect" the provisions of an armistice although refusing to endorse its provisions.

Agreement Splits Viet Nam Between Red, West Regimes

GENEVA, WEDNESDAY (AP)—French and Vietnamese officers, enemies for eight years of bitter warfare in Indochina, signed an armistice early today.

The cease-fire will split the big coastal state of Viet Nam between pro-Western and Communist-led regimes.

The agreement to halt the fighting on the jungled mountain and rice paddy battlefields of Viet Nam and Laos was signed by representatives of the two commands at 3:50 a. m.—10:50 p. m. EDT, Tuesday.

The signing ceremony in a room of the Palace of Nations, the old home of the League of Nations, began at 3:42 a. m.—10:42 p. m. EDT.

FRENCH AND Cambodian officials said a similar accord to end the fighting in Cambodia will be signed some time later today. This ceremony will be followed by a plenary session of the nine-party conference at 3 p. m.—10 a. m. EDT —to "take note" of the agreements.

Immediately after the signing ceremony, which took place under a battery of Kleig lights for the benefit of a handful of photographers, instructions were dispatched to field commanders to carry out the cessation of hostilities. The field commanders are to counter-sign the agreements.

GEN. GEORGES Detail signed the two accords—one covering Viet Nam and the other Laos—on behalf of the French Union and the French-Laoian commands, while Gen. Quang Bau signed them for the Vietnamese.

Raymond Offroy, French ambassador to Thailand and a member of the French delegation, said the exact date for the end of hostilities was secret for reasons of military security.

A VIETNAMESE official said the cease-fire orders would be effective July 28 for regular units, with a longer delay allowed to spread the word to various guerrilla forces in isolated mountain villages.

Officials said the texts of the agreements signed here today would not be published for two or three days—time to allow them to reach the scene in Indochina—but their contents already were generally known.

THEY PROVIDE for a military division of Viet Nam—the so-called "troop reassembly" zones—roughly along the 17th Parallel on a line about 12 miles north of Colonial Rt. 9 from the sea coast to the Laotian border, and for the "neutralization" of Laos and Cambodia.

Foreign—that is, Vietnamese—troops are to withdraw from Laos and Cambodia, and the present regimes in those Indochina kingdoms are to be recognized by the Communist states which heretofore have supported Vietnamese claims there.

IN RETURN, Laos and Cambodia bind themselves to remain out of any Western-backed Southeast Asia alliance (SEATO) and to forbid Western military bases on their soil.

The armistice is to be supervised by a neutral nations commission composed of India, as chairman, Canada and Poland.

Their decisions must be unanimous on points which might lead to a resumption of the fighting.

IN VIET NAM, the two sides agreed, all Vietnamese elections will be conducted under this neutral supervision within one to two years.

Representatives of the rival Viet Nam regimes, Ho Chi Minh's Communist government in the north and the Bao Dai administration in the south, are to confer on picking the date and manner of these elections.

Civilians on either side of the partition line will have a year to decide which section they want to live in.

THE MILITARY partition line is thus in theory a temporary one, but most officials here concede this probably will become a political and ideological frontier similar to East-West borders in Germany and Korea.

power "would not improve our situation in the world," Wilson said. "Two World wars have failed to establish a stable peace and I don't think a third world war is any answer."

ASKED whether that meant he believes in the possibility of co-existence with the Russians, he quipped: "Do you mean co-existence or cohabitation?"

The Communists, he said, fight not only with military pressure but also with economic pressure, subversive activity and propaganda. The principal cause of friction, he said, is the Cominform set up by the Russians to create dissatisfaction and keep up the pressure on the world.

If Russia were to back down on her security tactic, he said, there would be the "greatest cooling off of friction."

U. S. To Take Farm Census This Fall

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau is getting ready to ask every farmer in the United States this fall about 100 questions concerning his farm.

It will be the 16th time since 1840 that the Census Bureau has taken a census of agriculture in the United States. The bureau has kept separate farm statistics, however, only since 1850.

At that time, the enumerators reported the nation had 1,449,000 farms, containing 293,600,000 acres of land. Each farm, in 1850, was responsible for feeding eight of the nation's 23,200,000 people.

This year, the Census Bureau will probably find that every farm is responsible for feeding more people than ever before. But in other respects, the numbers may be smaller than they were in 1950, when the last census of agriculture was taken.

That is because the number of farms reached a peak in 1935—when the depression had driven the city jobless back to the farm—and has been declining in the many years of industrial expansion since then.

But the job this year will be many times as big as it was in 1850. In 1950, the Census Bureau counted 5,382,000 farms, more than three times as many as a century before.

ACREAGE HAD increased in a century by about four times, to 3,158,600,000 acres. And each farm in 1950 fed 3 1/2 times as many people as a century before. 28 of the nation's 151,100,000 population in 1950.

In 1935, the nation had 6,812,350 farms, about a third more than in 1950. Farms in 1935 enclosed 1,054,000,000 acres and each farm was responsible for feeding 18 of the nation's 127,300,000 persons.

The Census Bureau is not expecting to find any big changes in U. S. farming since 1950.

THIS YEAR, the farm census will seek as usual to determine the basic facts of U. S. agriculture—number of farms, acreage, farm population, crops grown, size of farm, type and length of tenure, ownership, livestock, irrigation, conservation practices, mortgage debt and farm value, and spending on farms for such things as labor, machine hire, food, fertilizers, gasoline and oil.

But the answers to some questions may indicate that in the past few years life on the farm has become less lonely and incorporates more of the frills of city life that have long lured farm people off the land.

Army To Buy Large Plant In Scranton

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Army has been granted permission to start negotiations with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad for purchase of the giant Scranton Ordnance Plant, it was announced yesterday.

The plant is now operated by the U. S. Hoffman Machinery Corp. Col. Walter M. Tisdale, deputy chief of the Philadelphia Ordnance District, said Hoffman will continue to produce eight-inch and 155-mm shells at the plant, but under the district office's administration. D. L. & W. once operated its locomotive repair shops at the plant. It was leased to Hoffman in January 1953 and reconditioned at a cost of $25,571,771.42.

THE CURRENT dollar value of the shell contracts awarded Hoffman, the Army said, amounts to $25,669,002.30.

Tisdale said purchase of the plant was based on economical reasons and on the desirability of locating a government-owned plant in the geographical area.

General Manager H. F. Heinlin of the Hoffman plant said government purchase of the plant "will greatly assist the unemployment problem that has confronted Scranton for so long, as the government will undoubtedly continue to utilize this facility in the future."

The purchase was approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Mrs. Mary Jones, of Wilkes-Barre, Beverly, Judy and Walter Stevens, of Johnson City, N. Y., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meixell Sunday. Runner-Up Gives Way To Winner

LONG BEACH, CALIF. (AP)—The Miss Universe committee found itself in a Hellenic Predicament yesterday—until one of its two Greek entrants withdrew.

Effe Ardoulakakis announced that she will step aside in favor of Rika Dialina, now en route here.

"I'm glad of her coming," said Miss Ardoulakakis, runner-up in the Grecian contest to Miss Dialina, who had visa troubles.

"WHEN SHE comes I'll be the first to greet her. She was chosen as the official Miss Greece and of course I am withdrawing. I hope I can stay in the United States awhile, if my parents will let me."

Oscar Meinhardt, promoter of the contest, told her: "You are our honored guest and will be treated as such. You are a great sportsman." He said the Miss Greece No. 2 will take part in all the pageantry and events of the contest.

MISS DIALINA, who originally won the Miss Greece title in Athens, was refused a visa to this country for the international beauty contest. She once drew an illustration of a book written by a Communist. Her sponsors vouched for her patriotism but the McCarran Act denies a visa to anyone who aids in the production of Communist literature.

That meant runner-up Miss Ardoulakakis came here to represent her nation. But Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gallantly stepped in and cleared Miss Dialina for entry.

Miss Dialina arrived in New York by plane yesterday.

How much horsepower in your ad program?

If you want your products to move faster, take a cue from the automobile people. They stepped up their newspaper advertising by 47.1% last year.

BIG NATIONAL ADVERTISERS of all types of products increased their newspaper advertising heavily in 1953.

But in the giant automotive field—where manufacturers had to sell as never before—they turned to newspapers with even more dramatic force.

Certainly these big advertisers use other media to help move their mountainous production—but they rely on newspapers as the basic medium in their sales effort.

They know that almost all the people in every town read a newspaper just about every day. It's one thing people won't do without!

They know that people read the newspaper for the ads as well as for the news—and that sales action follows newspaper reading!

IF YOU SELL PRODUCTS IN THIS AREA—don't settle for advertising that covers part of your market part of the time. For fast movement of your products, you need a steady, high-power ad program that hits on all cylinders!

If you're not getting newspaper advertising on all your products, don't delay. Tell your wholesalers and manufacturers' men you want full support in your local newspaper.

Alvin Dahl Expires At 82; Career As Builder Covered Great Railroad Expansion Era

ALVIN DAHL, 82, died yesterday at Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia. His wife, Mary E. Dahl, 527 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, died May 16, 1949.

Mr. Dahl was born Dec. 9, 1872 at Dassel, Reservation of Minnehaha Falls, Minnesota, and was the last of eight children of Aaron Peter Dahl and Kersten Dahl.

Mr. Dahl's life was spent on construction work, during a period in the Nineteenth Century when there was tremendous expansion, especially by railroads. He had many colorful experiences dealing with hardships and dangers he encountered in this country and Canada. Some 36 men were killed, one at his side, on various construction projects.

MR. DAHL started work at the age of 14 on the Northern Pacific Railroad bridge across the Mississippi River at Minneapolis. His father, then superintendent, was killed on this project. Starting as water boy, Dahl rose to master mechanic and superintendent. He worked for the F. M. Talbot Co. and the Arthur McMullin Construction Co., both of New York, for 47 years.

Among other projects which attracted his skills were: bridges for Northern Pacific and Great Northern at Minneapolis; bridges across Columbia River in Washington; Great Northern Railroad bridge across the bay at Tacoma, Wash.; Great Northern Railroad bridge at Granite, Idaho; Burlington bridge across Mississippi at Stratford, Ill.; dam across the Mississippi at Minneapolis where he suffered an arm injury; famous Holyoke Dam at Holyoke, Mass.; cantilever bridges across the Monongahela River at Pittsburgh and at Mingo Junction below Pittsburgh, then the longest span bridges in the world;

ALSO, BRIDGES across the Potomac at Washington at Harve de Gras, Md.; 13 bridges across the Meadows at Harrison, N. J. for the Pennsylvania Railroad; lining the Lackawanna Tunnel under Bergen Hill for D. L. & W. railroad; bridge across Delaware at Yardley for the Reading Railroad; bridges at Kingsley, Pa. and Nicholson for the D. L. & W. railroad, which at the time were longest three-track and two-track bridges in the world; overhead construction work for D. L. & W. in the Oranges, N. J.

His construction career brought him in contact with a number of tragedies including death of 16 men on the Wahash bridge, Pittsburgh; 11 drownings at Harrison, N. J. and 16 deaths in an explosion of a mill at Washburn-Crosby Milling Co., Minneapolis.

During his life Mr. Dahl perfected and patented several inventions. One was the demountable

Shade Tree Commission

East Stroudsburg's Shade Tree Commission, instituted about a month ago by Chief Burgess Jesse R. S. Flory with the cooperation of council, has started functioning on a series of projects designed to improve the all-important matter of municipal forestry.

Too often a community overlooks the importance of adequate shade trees. Their value from the standpoint of beauty, holding down summer temperatures, and affording general comfort to citizens, cannot be overestimated.

From the strictly commercial standpoint studies by big retail organizations, in conjunction with American Nurserymen, prove that shaded areas produce the greatest revenue from shoppers.

East Stroudsburg's Shade Tree Commission has an important task to perform. With cooperation of municipal officials and citizens, it will make valuable and effective contributions to the borough.

Everybody's Duty

Task of broadening the base of blood donors confronting the Monroe County Blood Bank Committee has been bearing down on this vital project for some months.

Easily recognizable fact is that one segment of the Pocono Mountains has been called on all too frequently to supply blood requirements for citizen and military requirements imposed on the central Wilkes-Barre blood bank of the American Red Cross.

Time and again industry has been asked and readily responded, but these people cannot be expected to answer call after call over and above the restrictions which apply to an individual acting as a blood donor.

This task is not one especially for the Red Cross blood donor system to solve. It is a responsibility of every citizen, whether organized or not.

The blood bank serves everybody in Monroe County without cost. It follows that it's everybody's duty to serve the blood bank.

Individuals, whether organized or not, have a definite responsibility to contact American Red Cross in Stroudsburg and help solve the task of broadening the base of blood donors. And that includes ALL of the citizens in this county.

George Sokolsky Says...

Mineral Investigations Include Less Than One Percent Of U.S. Territory

It is surprising to learn from the report of the Malone Committee that less than one percent of the area of the United States has been included in geological investigations. How then do we know what our mineral wealth is? We are constantly being told that our foreign policy is to a degree based on our shortages of certain minerals and materials. How do we know? Only 12.7 percent has been geologically mapped by the United States Geological Survey which began to work in 1880.

I wonder how much of our various contributions to foreign aid has been spent in distant countries to discover minerals that have to be brought to us across the oceans in time of war? The defeat of the French in Indochina means, in American terms, that Burma, Malaya and Indonesia are in peril within a few years, thus imperiling our principal source of tin and raw rubber.

The Malone Committee definitely assures the country: "The United States cannot possibly exhaust its present and potential fuels supply including petroleum and coal in the foreseeable future. The absolute necessity for going-concern industries cannot be over-emphasized."

The petroleum industry benefits by depletion allowances which encourage risk investments in this commodity. The Committee recommends that depletion allowances be granted other mineral industries as an incentive for risk investment. The Committee reports: "Enormous oil reserves are found in the shales and/or coal of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio, as well as in Canada. It has been estimated these shales contain over 200 billion barrels of oil. Experimental work by the Union Oil Co. and Bureau of Mines in pilot plant operation shows that petroleum production from this source is entirely practicable and that vast amounts of oil may be produced in the foreseeable future. The Green River formation in Colorado alone has been described as an area of 1,000 square miles with an underlay of oil shale 500 feet thick averaging a recovery of 15 gallons of oil per ton."

The Malone Committee favors a protective policy for the American mineral industry so that American risk capital will go into these businesses. The point is made: "Mines once closed down require years of time and tremendous investments to reopen. With experienced workers and technical staffs widely scattered, machinery liquidated, mines flooded and caved, much of our once available reserves are destroyed, and prospecting for new reserves is discouraged. Failure to realize the situation could mean tragedy to our economy and our material security."

"Numerous administrative agencies and departments of the Government are involved in the stockpile program, or in efforts to increase the production of critical materials. They act independently of each other and none are charged with the complete operation. Many are not cognizant of the end objectives of the program. Their activities are marked by confusion and delay."

There are 77 essential minerals and materials without which it is impossible to conduct war or to maintain our industries. In case of war, it would probably be impossible to bring these minerals and materials to this country across the oceans. The Malone Committee sought to discover whether these minerals and materials are available on the American continents.

For instance, titanium is one of the most important minerals. It is essential for bomber planes flying great distances at supersonic speeds. This country needs 150,000 tons of titanium annually and we produce 2,000 tons. The Committee reports: "In 1953 the Secretary of Defense recommended the production of 35,000 tons of titanium annually by 1956. The Office of Defense Mobilization reduced the figure to 25,000 tons and up to September 21 of that year the General Services Administration had let contracts for 13,200 tons and the actual annual production was little over 2,000 annual tons."

If titanium has to be brought across oceans, it is possible that we shall not have any in war time. At present, Australia and India are sources of the raw material. Obviously this material could not be brought across the Pacific Ocean in the event of a Far Eastern war. India may prevent us from shipping this war essential at the behest of the Soviet Universal State. According to Senator George Malone's Committee, there is more titanium in the United States and Canada than could be used in a century. Why are we going to India for this material?

The Once Over

AIRWAVE CANDOR KIDS... Arthur Godfrey's recent routine in taking the general public into his confidence over national hook-ups to call attention to bad behavior by members of his cast and even specifying the nature of the offense is something new in the way of candor. It can set a trend.

We can foresee a ventriloquist stepping out of character to announce, "Ladies and gentlemen, you will notice that my dummy is out of the act tonight. I wish to be frank and say the bum talked behind my back." Or maybe hear the head man on Zoo Parade say, "I told you last week that one of my buffaloes was running around with a couple of moose and that if it didn't stop there would be one anybody is missing you will know that's why." This started the guessing contest of the year. It even increased interest in the Godfrey programs. Other radio and TV performers may be quick to take the cue. One of these nights Jackie Gleason may step out of the role of the bus driver and say, "Folks now is the time to let the public know that a certain party in this show stays out all night and rings doorbells. Check the cast at each performance. I may fire the guy any day." We may hear Warren Hull on "Strike It Rich" say, "Confidentially, a guest scheduled for next week has been hitting the pipe. I may have to make a substitution." Can't you fancy Art Linkletter at one of his kiddie-parties proclaiming, "I have news for you. A certain six-year-old kid who makes with smart cracks with me now and then has been eating too many green apples. It throws him away off form. If he's off the air next time don't say you weren't notified."

Even Kukla, Fran and Ollie could follow the trend. Suspense grows as the program continues without him. Then the fans remember a crack of three previous shows. "There are dragons and dragons, good and bad. The bad ones go off this show. I'm telling you this just in case." Anything can happen now. "Dragon" can have Jack Webb make an announcement that any crook who misbehaves will be cut out of the hunt. We may even hear a newscaster threaten to drop a sponsor if he doesn't stop at the fifth dry martini.

A thoroughbred named "Contour" won at $113 as the first half of a daily double paying $1,100 at Jamaica. And we know a man who laid off him because he didn't think the skinner in shape!!!! I never give up any battle until I am licked and utterly destroyed."

President Eisenhower... you mean a golf opponent has got to take every hole and refuse even to concede a six-inch putt!!!! Grantland Rice's first New York job was on the old Mail and he made the triumvirate of Rube Goldberg, F. P. A. and Rice, each the sensation of that day when still in their twenties. How many people knew that Rube Goldberg began as a sports page cartoonist, satirizing, however, every phase of New York life, and making his "Foolish Questions" and "Inventions" the talk of the country... F.P.A. had a terrific following and Granby's sports verse had imitators everywhere... The secret of his popularity was that he was not afraid to be kind, generous and sentimental and was never a member of the cynical set that considers most everything tender and "from the heart" to be "corny"... We loved to watch him at the race tracks where he shared his information with every friend and usually wound up with a ticket on every horse... His nature was expressed in his own message: "You are here only a little while. Don't worry. Don't hurry. And don't forget to smell the flowers."

An agency of the U.N. says too many people take too many medicines and asks action to regulate the publicity for them and the price... Well the U.N. certainly looks as if it had been taking pills that did it no good... We hope there is no United Nations debate over what to take before and after eating, as it could lead to a Vishinsky charge that the shape the world is in is due to American and British druggists... The National Association for Better Radio and Video alleges that a careful check shows four times more crime on kiddies' programs than three years ago when both, especially TV, were pledging less crime programs and adopting codes and seals of good practice!... This raises again the question whether radio and TV chiefs have children of their own and whether they and the leaders of industry who sponsor horror programs ever read about what's happening to the kids of America.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Don't Try To Change Your Spouse; It Can't Be Done

In a comic strip I saw the other day, a teen-age youngster asks her mother what, if she had her life to live all over again, would be the first thing she'd do over.

The mother points to her husband, reading his newspaper, and says "Him."

I wonder how many husbands and wives don't feel the same about their spouses.

I wonder whether most of us would, if it were in our power, take them just as they are or in slightly altered form and manner.

We know, of course, that none of us is perfect, most of all you and I. I doubt that we, ourselves, if we had the power would not change ourselves around, if not completely, at least to a very large extent.

But let me give you a very modest piece of advice: Don't try to change your wife or your husband. It simply can't be done, and even if it appears that you have done it, I guarantee that it is never the real thing.

People just simply don't change.

What appears to be a change in character—which a man or a woman sometimes assumes just to please the mate—is just like putting on cosmetics. Eventually it will wear off and the real color will come out again.

The best way to find out what kind of a wife or husband you are getting is by finding it out before you get married. After the knot is tied, you are stuck with whatever you've got—for better or worse—and you may as well make the best of it.

And the peculiar thing about marriage is that long engagements don't seem to teach boys and girls any more about each other than short ones.

In my humble opinion there is something like a click when you find the right one.

You may be sitting in a cafe or at a dance or anywhere at all. Suddenly something clicks in you—and you know that's it. You have found your mate.

From then on it's time to start studying to see whether you not only click but whether the two of you operate on the same current. For heaven's sake don't take this as a scientific thesis. It's completely unscientific. But I still maintain that, if you feel that click, that's it. And, after that, if you both operate on 120 volts or 220 volts or whatever your voltage may be, you are very apt to get along for the rest of your lives.

Now don't expect that there won't be a short circuit in your married life or that a fuse won't ever blow out. It's just like with life in general. Lightning may strike your house—bing, goes a fuse.

The main thing is not to pull all the rest of the wires apart and put the whole electric system on the blink. Just take it easy. Throw the switch for a few moments, put in a new fuse, and in short time everything will be working all right again. The lights will go on, the television will be working, and you two will kiss and make up.

The main thing is—take it easy and don't lose your head. If you do lose your head your only effective electrician may be the divorce court.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

At an exclusive restaurant on 52nd Street, New York. "Have you a reservation?" is the chill formula that sends all but "regulars" back into the cold night. Lucius Beebe tells of one time, however, that the late Robert Capa, the photographer, outwitted the "opposition."

He had just gotten off a plane from Europe and was unshaven, disheveled, and in every respect exactly the kind of customer this fancy "jerk" was wont to frown upon. "Have you a reservation?" the maitre d'hotel asked "Bob" in his most chilling tone. "No," admitted Capa in a very lordly manner. "But Robert Capa, the world's greatest photographer, asked me to meet him here." The maitre d'hotel melted. "Come right in sir," he beamed. "Mr. Capa hasn't arrived yet, but we're expecting him any minute."

A recent news note concerned a big steel magnate who just had altered his will for the eleventh time. "Obviously," commented Hy Gardner, "the fellow's a fresh heir bend."

The United States ranks first in output of locomotives and freight cars.

In the past three centuries, the world population has more than quadrupled.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Rhee's Visit To Involve Showdown On His Demands

Washington — There is a lot more than social hoopla and international goodwill - willing behind next week's visit of President Syngman Rhee.

Showdowns of far-reaching consequence will take place during his stay.

The aged South Korean (Rhee admits being around 80 and is probably older) is bringing with him a long list of military and other demands, and U. S. authorities have a number of highly important matters to settle with him.

Also, each side is both friendly and annoyed with the other. The relationship is a curious mixture of harmony and acerbity.

Both feel the other is "difficult" at times. That view applies particularly to Rhee, who has wrangled in one way or another with virtually every American official who has dealt with him.

A mystery has popped up in connection with his trip.

The octogenarian has secretly bought a residence in Washington.

It was a personal purchase; had nothing to do with the ROK government, which has a handsome embassy on fashionable upper Massachusetts Avenue, where many foreign missions are located. The house Rhee bought is a private home.

Surmise in official circles is that it's for his Austrian wife.

She is years younger than Rhee and it is assumed this house is part of plans for her welfare if she survives him. She married him before he returned to Korea after World War II and had never been there prior to that. While Mrs. Rhee stays out of the limelight, she is very active in her husband's inner councils and powerfully influences his views and dealings.

She is not popular in various ROK army and political quarters. Average age of ROK generals and colonels is 32, and new political leaders coming to the fore are not much older.

In South Korea, it is deemed unlikely Mrs. Rhee will remain there after her husband's death.

The line up — Rhee's possible demise is a major U. S. problem, in several ways.

Although high-handed, stubborn and willful, Rhee is a patriot and hero and is admired and respected, if not loved, by his people. He is an outstanding leader, and his death, or serious illness, would be a grave loss to his country and the U. S.

Greatly concerned about that.

Pocono Motor Boat Safety Insures Fun

—by H. G. Heller

Something more vital than sheer enjoyment of a hobby is involved in the organization of 50 Pocono Mountains residents in the Pocono Motor Boat Club.

Created in April, 1954 with a nucleus of experienced motor boat devotees, the organization has purposefully attempted to instill in its members, and all boatmen, proper operation of all types of motor craft.

This attempt to create an awareness of the potential dangers, always minimized by proper regard for water safety, has paid off. There's been not a single unhappy accident involving Pocono Motor Boat Club members, or any of the hardy group of outboard motorists who've been exposed to the Pocono Motor Boat Club teachings.

Sam (Happy Hour) Miller is president of the club. Postmaster Fred Rhodes of Stroudsburg is vice president. Mrs. Jane Albrecht, Bushkill and Stroudsburg is secretary-treasurer.

Home base of the members is the Delaware River in Spring when the river is "up" and Lake Wallenpaupack later in the season. Tossed in with motor boating is a bit of water skiing.

It is interesting that these motor boaters have $40,000 tied up in equipment—boats, motors and various auxiliary equipment. Individual rigs, including a trailer to transport boats and motors involve expenditures ranging from $300 to $1,200.

Various members of the club represent the organization in races of many types.

Stan Sell, one of the operators of Shawnee Hosiery here, has been entered in the St. Lawrence River Endurance Race. Other events sanctioned, or sponsored by the American Outboard Association attract Pocono Club members.

Outside the contest field, club members have made some group trips this year and plan more later in the year, including a jaunt up the Susquehanna River.

The Scranton Outboard Motor Club has been entertained on the Delaware River three times this year by the Pocono group.

One of the immediate aims of the organization is to establish permanent launching bases on nearby rivers and lakes, and further develop the membership which is still open.

Next time you are paddling around a river or lake, you're sure to recognize a Pocono Motor Boat Club member by the way he or she handles a craft.

This organized method of recreation, based as it is on sound principles of water safety, carries the best kind of insurance against those water mishaps we've seen so much of this summer—all ending in tragedy or near tragedy.

N.Y. Confidential —by Lee Mortimer

News item: The Main Stern's fabulous Monte Proser busts ankle while hosting at his new Play House Inn, Bucks County, Pa.

The lowdown: Broadway is the place where characters are manufactured. If you are better at anything than anyone else, whether it is sitting on a flag pole, panhandling, gate-crashing, bopping coppers on the beeper or getting married, you acquire international fame and fortune.

Little, likable Monte Proser, is the town's most successful character. He parlayed hardluck into moolah. In fact, into several piles of moolah.

When I first ran across him, which was so long ago we don't talk about it, Monte held down a $12 a week job as press agent for the old Paramount Grill, which later became Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe. Hoofing at the spot were many pretty gals.

According to the legend (which Monte and his present ever-loving like to forget) he fell for a 15-year-old moppet named Julie Jenner. She was a pretty pigeon. As the story goes, he chased her unsuccessfully for years, carrying the brightest torch that ever illuminated Broadway. Finally, just to get rid of him (she later told me) Julie married him.

She was tiny; but an omphry brunette, correctly architected. You'd figure anyone lucky enough to have her would try to hold her, but not Monte. He was a character.

By now he was a chronic torch-bearer, than which no disease is more chronic. Instead of spending his evenings at home with the bride he had chased for so long, he sat at his old table at Dave's Blue Room and tearfully insisted "his wife didn't love him."

Monte had become a tradition on a street of fantastic traditions.

In other parts of the world when a man loses his gal, he (a) sighs with relief; (b) gets mad and shoots somebody; (c) mourns in secret; (d) gets drunk and forgets her; (e) gets another gal. Frequently he combines two or more of these.

But always he goes about it with some degree of silence. The last thing in the world he wants is to have anybody talk to him about it.

It is this that makes torch-carrying on Broadway unique. Your Broadwayite is an exhibitionist. When he carries the torch he does so all may see, hear, observe and talk.

Monte was the champ of all time. He made the celebrated torches of history pale by comparison. Forgotten were the previous champion torches such as the late Earl Carroll's for glorious Dorothy Knap and onetime showgirl Judy Malcolm's for Abe Lyman.

But his friends were afraid he'd starve to death. That's how Monte's torch turned into gold.

Jaycees Complete Plans For Bloodmobile Visit

Mobile Unit To Stop Here On Thursday

POCONO Jaycees tonight will spearhead the July blood drive with a parade from East Stroudsburg to Stroudsburg and back.

The parade is to dramatize the need for blood donations Thursday at Stroudsburg First Presbyterian Church.

Leading off from the American Legion home will be the Legion's Drum and Bugle Corps. Following will be a caravan of 10 cars covered with banners and placards urging residents to support the July blood drive.

ALSO TO BE used in the parade will be a school bus lent by A. B. Wyckoff. It will be decorated too. Gerald Foley will be at the wheel of a Jess F. Haynes wreck, towing a battered car which will symbolize one of the vital uses for the whole blood given by accident victims.

The parade will start at 7:15 p. m. from the Legion Home. Police of both boroughs have volunteered full cooperation with the parade plans.

ANOTHER PLAN being promoted for the Thursday donation hours is free parking for donors. Jaycees will contact Stroudsburg police to see if arrangements can be made to take care of meter costs on behalf of donors.

Lloyd Frailey Badly Burned When Accumulation Of Gas Explodes In His Basement

LLOYD FRAILEY, Reeder's, was burned critically last night when an accumulation of gas exploded in the basement of his home.

He was admitted to General Hospital about 6 p. m., was reported "fairly comfortable" last night.

A son, Verdon, of Bartonsville, said the pilot light had gone out on the gas hot water heater in his father's basement. Frailey went down to light it again. He left the basement door open to allow the gas accumulation to escape, but evidently didn't leave it open long enough, said the son.

WHEN THE ELDER Frailey struck a match, accumulated gas exploded, Verdon related. Flames filled the basement, and set Frailey's clothing afire.

Frailey dropped to the floor and crawled out of the door with his clothing still on fire. Outdoors he called for help. His son, David, who had been working on an automobile behind the house, came on the run. So did Frailey's wife. They managed to beat out the flames on Frailey's clothing, then took him to the office of Dr. Edward T. Horn, Tannersville, for treatment.

An ambulance moved Frailey from Horn's office to the hospital.

Auto Bootlegging Under Attack At Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto dealers' profits will fade out completely this year unless bootlegging of new cars is stopped, a dealers' spokesman told a Senate committee yesterday.

Charles C. Freed of Salt Lake City, president of the National Automobile Dealers Assn., urged passage of a bill to allow manufacturers to reinstate an anti-bootlegging clause in dealer contracts.

Manufacturers thus would be able to forbid their franchised dealers from selling cars to unauthorized persons for resale below list price at auctions and on used car lots. Freed said the practice, in recent months, has become increasingly serious.

AGRAMONTE, challenged former Minister of State Aurelio Sanchez Arango to a duel July 16 for what he called insults to the founder of Agramonte's political party. When Agramonte arrived here, the ex-Cabinet minister could not be found. Reporters finally located him Monday night and were told he would fight the duel anywhere except in Mexico.

AGRAMONTE said he complied with all requirements for the duel by coming to Mexico, and announced he was returning to Cuba. He said the next move was up to his opponent.

SANCHEZ ARANGO said he would name his own aides and contact Agramonte for further arrangements. It was believed he refused the challenge in Mexico because dueling is against the law here and any violation might endanger his right of asylum.

THE witnesses named were Paul Dorfman, head of the Chicago Waste Handlers Union (AFL), and his son, Allen, also of Chicago, who operates the Union Insurance Agency of Illinois.

THIS AGENCY, the report said, received over a million dollars in commissions, expense allowances and service fees in four years in handling union insurance accounts for the Union Casualty Co., Mt. Vernon, N. Y. The latter firm's annual premiums jumped from 1½ million dollars in 1948 to 9 million in 1952.

From my place to N. Ninth St. until the superhighway is built."

"FIVE YEARS ago I drew up plans," Lee said. But these plans had been ignored, he said. Lee said he opposed a "road over the mountains then . . . and I still do."

Turning to the current traffic congestion in the Stroudsburg area, Lee said:

"Sure I know the automobile man had a terrible time over Foxtown Hill this past week."

"But he (the man in the car) has almost nothing invested, except maybe four or five hundred dollars in his automobile," Lee said.

"MR. HAYNES has two or three hundred thousand dollars invested, though," Lee asserted. "We must take care of him and Mr. Mikels and the rest of our big businessmen."

Lee said he didn't think the group would have any trouble putting over the Ninth St. bypass, because, he said, "Mr. Schmidt and Governor Fine will do that if we ask them."

"I know they will," he said. "I know."

LEE THEN turned his comments to praise for Gerald P. O'Neill, operator of two local hotels. "Where is there another small town," he asked, "that's got a man who can bring in a governor or a General Motors president and entertain him so royally?"

Haynes interrupted at this point (he had not yet been elected president) to say:

"I don't think any of us wants to be selfish. There've been some very good suggestions come out that could be done at one-third of the cost to the taxpayer."

"WE ONLY HAVE a few weeks that traffic is bound up here," Haynes maintained.

Haynes told the group that he and two other "influential" persons were "going to Harrisburg next week" to see what they could do. He declined to name the other two persons saying "I cannot tell you much about it now but I'll report to you after the meeting."

Drake then returned to a discussion of election of officers.

"ANYBODY INTERESTED in running this group?" he asked. No one spoke up. Drake then pointed out that he, personally, was not interested in holding an office in the organization "except maybe as secretary because that will give me a chance to canvass people and get members."

Officers were then elected. Haynes walked to the front of the

Mrs. Arnold, 80, Dies At Saylorburg

MRS. ANNA F. ARNOLD, 80, widow of George L. Arnold, Saylorburg, died at 8 p. m. yesterday at her home following several days' illness.

Born in Effort, she was the daughter of the late Bolser and Elizabeth George Feller. She had been a Saylorburg resident 55 years. She was employed at Blue Mountain Textile Co., Wind Gap, retired about three years ago.

She was a member of the Lutheran faith and attended St. Peter's Evangelical United Brethren Church, Saylorburg.

SURVIVING are a son, John B. Saylorburg; two grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Roger Schook, Tannersville; a brother, Edwin Feller, Scotia; and a half-sister, Mrs. Perry Kresge, Effort.

Services will be held at 2 p. m., Saturday at the Schmidt home, Wind Gap, with Rev. Harold L. Ulmer officiating. Burial will be at Lake View Cemetery, Saylorburg.

Friends may call at the Schmidt chapel from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday.

room, as did Boushell and the three officers sat at the front table. In his remarks of acceptance, Haynes said:

"At first I didn't have any intention of taking this job but . . . I know if they bypass us it will hurt us. This is our bread and butter."

HAYNES SAID he and his office assistants "had done some work on this" after he had talked with Drake "this morning."

During the three heavy Summer months, he said, "37 to 40 per cent of our business is road service business from tourists."

"With your indulgence and help I'll do everything I can to keep the traffic right where it is," Haynes said. He then asked that the persons in the room either introduce themselves or be introduced "because I don't know most of you and I'm sure you don't know me."

FOLLOWING introductions, Drake announced — from notes on a card previously handed to him by an employee of his firm who had accepted a phone call in his behalf — that "Gerry O'Neill asks for two memberships in the organization—one for the Penn. Stroud and one for the Indian Queen."

Drake told the group that Stroudsburg residents ("those people on Thomas St.") had to be "educated . . . because the only thing they know is what's modern or what they think is modern. They don't think about anything but

Car Strikes Road Grader; Two Injured

DAMAGES TOTALED $1,300 in the collision of a car with a tractor-grader a mile and a half north of Fern Ridge at 7:50 a. m. yesterday.

Fern Ridge State police said the car was being driven south by William H. Lesser, 70, Scranton. The vehicle sheered the right front wheel off the grader axle, police said.

Driving the grader was Willis W. Cole, 53, Dalton RD1, Pa. The machine was owned by Herbert R. Imbt, State College, Pa.

LESSER SUFFERED a chest injury and bruises. A passenger, William C. Moffatt, 70, Scranton, suffered injuries of the chest, thorax and leg, troopers said. Both were treated at the office of Dr. James G. Kitchen, Pocono Lake.

Damages were $1,000 to the grader, police said, and the rest to the car. Police said Lesser will be cited for a motor code violation.

superhighways and turnpikes," he said.

There was then a discussion of "who should be eligible to join" the organization.

THERE WERE suggestions from the group that the organization could attract more members by including taxpayers. Drake said he felt a "taxpayers association" was not in line with the aims of the organization.

Lee suggested expanding the appeal of the group so that businessmen on "Routes 209 and 90 would get interested." After a five-minute discussion it was decided to include anyone in Stroudsburg or along Route 611 who is a property owner.

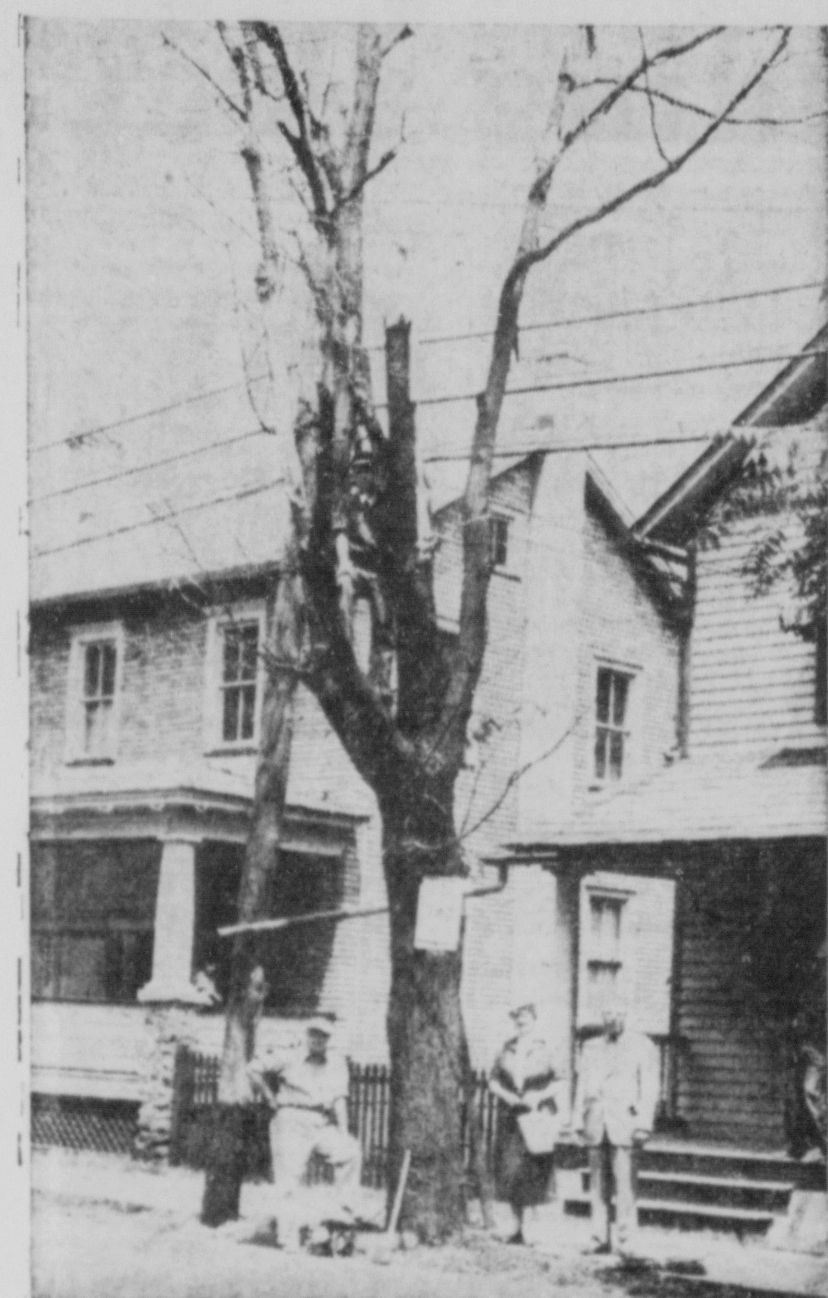

The suggested name submitted by Drake had been "The Progressive Businessmen's Association of Greater Stroudsburg."

This was amended to read: "The Progressive Businessmen's and Property Owners Association of Greater Stroudsburg."

BEFORE THE meeting began Drake told two photographers that "no picture of the crowd" could be taken. He also said names of members would not be released.

Drake indicated that publication of the names or a photograph showing the group "might put them in a bad position and break up some friendships."

During the meeting Drake, Haynes and others emphasized that the organization should be founded on a permanent basis. Drake said he favored placement of "no passing" signs along Route 611 in Arlington Heights and the construction of a bridge near "Gravel Place."

Shade Tree Commission Functioning In East Borough

EAST STROUDSBURG'S new Shade Tree Commission began operations yesterday.

The commission, appointed by Burgess Jesse S. Flory, is under the chairmanship of Harry Howell. Mrs. Eli Travis is serving as secretary. Organized for about a month, the commission's purpose is to care for dead trees and overhanging branches that obstruct lighting facilities on the streets.

The actual work is carried out by Wilson S. MacIntire, local tree expert. They began yesterday morning on S. Green St., where they trimmed the lower branches of trees to avoid interfering with the street cleaning machine. They also felled a tree on Crystal St. which was dead.

The tree on N. Courtland St. was an old maple. It grew near a utility pole and had apparently been dead for some years. A young catalpa tree had rooted itself in a knot of the maple. It was said that children in the neighborhood used to put fire crackers in the hollow trunk and that the smoke from the crackers would go out through the limbs.

The commission's services are very much needed in East Stroudsburg, Howell said. There has been no such committee until this time.

Committee Warns Business Competition From Rich Unions May Make Farce Of Bargaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Labor subcommittee said yesterday business ventures operated by rich unions or union leaders may turn collective bargaining with employers into "an empty farce."

The group said in a report that employers by law are allowed to resist union demands but if a union operates a competing business, the combined pressure could mount so "the employer may well have no choice but to yield."

THE SUBCOMMITTEE, summing up testimony of hearings held last year at Detroit, recommended that the full Labor Committee meet promptly to cite two witnesses for contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions about their financial transactions.

The witnesses named were Paul Dorfman, head of the Chicago Waste Handlers Union (AFL), and his son, Allen, also of Chicago, who operates the Union Insurance Agency of Illinois.

THIS AGENCY, the report said, received over a million dollars in commissions, expense allowances and service fees in four years in handling union insurance accounts for the Union Casualty Co., Mt. Vernon, N. Y. The latter firm's annual premiums jumped from 1½ million dollars in 1948 to 9 million in 1952.

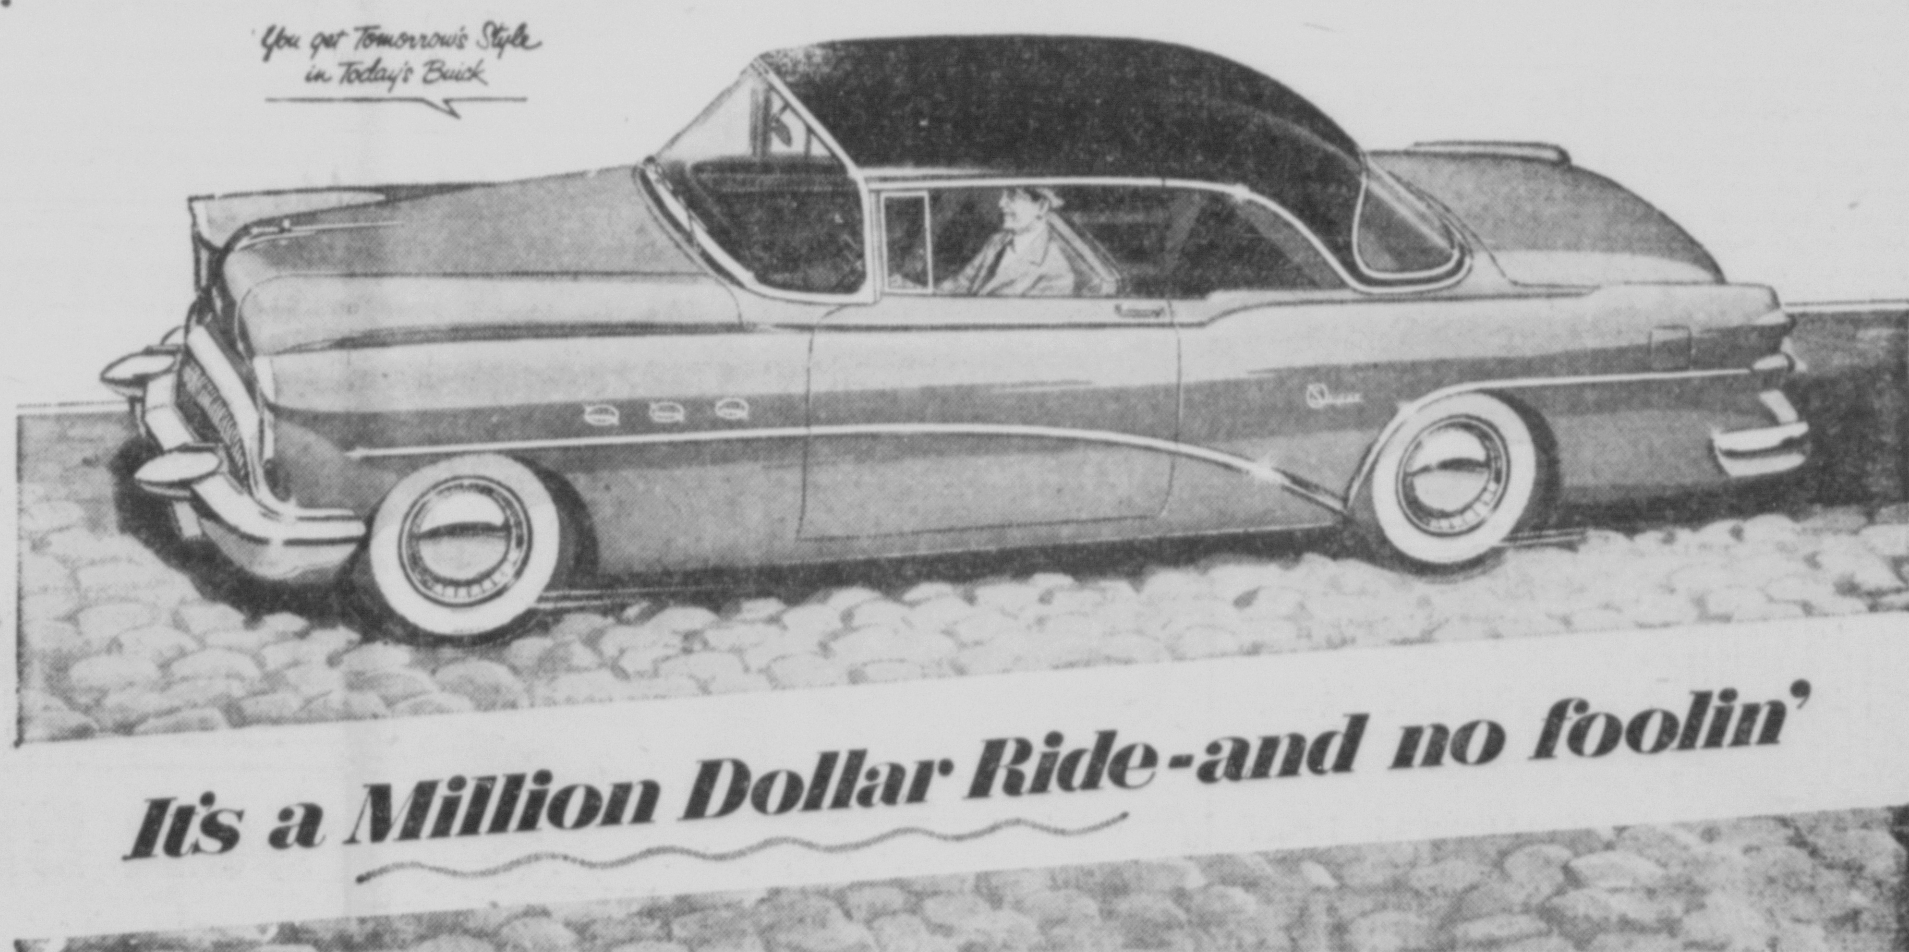

"The facts of business and economic life," the report said, "are such that through their unions, employees enjoy considerable power and can bargain with an authority they could never have as individuals. Congress intended that this be so.

"BUT WE DO NOT believe that Congress intended an unethical use of union power and authority. And we seriously question the ethics of the various business arrangements which we recount here."

The subcommittee said it was urgent that Congress investigate fully union handling of rich employer-paid welfare funds and also the extent of union business competition with employers with whom the union bargains.

ON THE LATTER point, the National Relations Board recently ruled that an employer is not compelled to bargain with a union operating a rival business.

YOU can see for yourself the gay and gorgeous styling that's sure to be the fresh note next year, too.

And you can easily learn that here is power a-plenty—the highest V8 power, Series for Series, in the annals of Buick history.

But what you can never know, till you try it yourself, is the feel of a Buick in motion.

It's a ride as precision-soft and firm as only coiled steel can make it.

Yes, coil springs on all four wheels. And a full-length torque-tube drive for true tracking. And a massive X-braced frame for solid steadiness. And specially calibrated shock absorbers, V-braced struts, wide-rim wheels, a unique front-end geometry—plus a host of other betterments too numerous to mention.

You feel the result of this advanced engineering every mile you drive—in what is literally and figuratively a Million Dollar Ride.

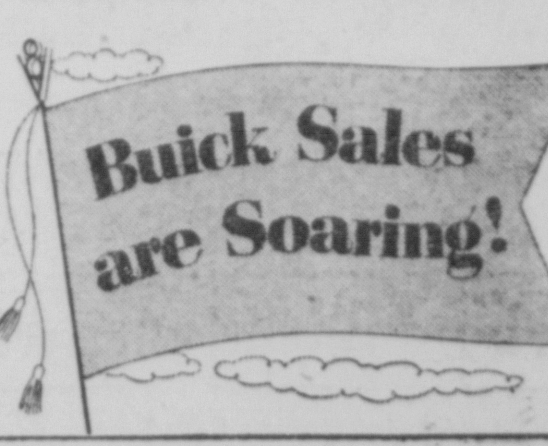

You feel it in the superb and buoyant cradling. You feel it in the serene levelness of your going over ruts and ridges. You feel it in the precise snubbing of jars and jounces. You feel it in a new kind of steadiness, handling ease, curve control.

Only thing for you to do, we believe, is to come try this miracle of motion—and we'll be glad to oblige.

That way you'll also learn firsthand about the style, the power, and the value that have made Buick such a best-selling success this year. For Buick today is out-selling all other cars in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

New Plastic Laminate On Market

By DAVID G. BARETHER
(AP Real Estate Editor)

A MODERN KITCHEN is so close to a woman's heart that many new houses are sold in the kitchen. The builders install an array of the latest equipment—dishwasher, automatic range, refrigerator, steel cabinets and a spectacular sweep of seamless colorful counter-tops. Well, what chance does a mere man have to examine construction while his wife is in a daze in that kitchen?

Take heart, men, if you're handy. You can give the little lady a kitchen like that in your own house and keep her in love with the place and with you. Of course, it takes a little doing and a little where-withal, but it can be a lot cheaper than buying a new house in order to get a new kitchen.

YOU PROBABLY know fellows who built their own knotty pine kitchen cabinets and had them turn out fine. If such cabinet work is beyond you, consider steel kitchen cabinets already enameled as slick as a refrigerator. She doesn't like white? Spray paint them, as you would paint your car, or take them to an auto body works and have them sprayed marine-cherry or mountain sea shell, or whatever color she must have.

We happen to know a couple of men who installed their own mail order dishwashers. Their local plumbing supply houses helped them out with an assortment of couplings, unions, elbows and other fittings giving them credit for what they didn't need. This is a do-it-yourself age, you know.

BUT WHEN it comes to those smart plastic countertops, you may feel stumped. It's an expensive job to have them fitted tightly around the sink and trimmed with chrome around all edges. You've been told, perhaps, that you can do it, but you wonder about the hazards involved.

Most of the plastic laminates used for these modern countertops are rigid sheets which you cement to a plywood underlayment. The plywood surface is sanded smooth; adhesive is spread evenly over the entire surface; the laminate, cut to fit, is carefully laid in place and pressed down with a rolling pin. Then the edges are trimmed and chromium molding is put on.

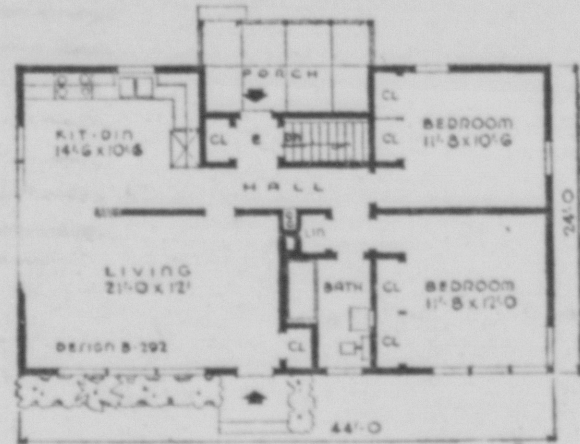

NOW THERE'S a new product on the market to make this job a little simpler. It is a plastic board composed of synthetic resins and paper. It comes in a thickness of one-tenth of an inch and is slightly curved for tension. The importance of the curve is that it eliminates the usual need for lamination. The surface is held in place by its own spring tension when forced and held by metal edging.

You can use standard metal moldings made for any eighth-inch thick material or for standard gauge linoleum. Any unevenness of the under-surface is filled with a special mastic and a strip of the mastic about 12 inches wide is snared down the middle, ending about 6 inches from each end. The rest of the sheet is held by tension.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. B-292

DESIGN B-292—This compact house is an open room arrangement consisting of a living room which adjoins a combination kitchen-dinette area, two bedrooms of almost the same size, a bath, and a screened porch in the rear. There is also a full basement with the stairs leading from the rear entry. The living room and master bedroom face the front, where there is a generous planting area.

The exterior finish calls for wood wall shingles, wide eave overhang and asphalt roof shingles. Other interesting features called for in the plans are the folding doors to separate the living room and dinette area, a wide picture window, convenient coat closets at the entrances, roomy wardrobes in the bedrooms, an easily accessible linen closet, and a recessed tub in bathroom. The floor area is 1,609 sq. ft., with cubage of 18,665 cu. ft.

Oil Hands Before Starting To Paint

EVER SEE a mechanic rub his hands well with soap, without water, before he starts a greasy job? After he finishes the job, he washes his hands and all comes off easily.

You can use this principle when tackling a paint job. Baby oil, rubbed thoroughly into your hands before you begin to paint, makes it easy to remove drops on your skin after you finish painting. It eliminates the skin-drying effect of washing in turpentine.

Keep It Clean

CONCRETE will not turn out properly unless all the ingredients are free from dirt. There's no need to worry about the cement because that comes in a bag, but be sure that the water, sand and gravel are clean. The safest course is to buy washed sand and gravel.

Attic Fan Cools House; Cost Small

THE ATTIC FAN is one of the most economical methods of cooling a house, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

The attic fan insures a brisk circulation of cooling air through the house. Taking advantage of the fact that outside air after sundown is usually from 15 to 25 degrees cooler than the hot air trapped inside the house, an attic fan quickly lowers the indoor temperature.

The new night-air cooling fans are efficient, quiet, inexpensive to operate and simple to install, the bureau says. They run slowly to reduce vibration.

An attic fan is a permanent installation providing many years of trouble-free operation. Extensive remodeling of living quarters is not required for the installation of an attic fan.

A 36-inch fan which is the typical size for the medium house will circulate 10,000 cubic feet of air out of and into the house each minute. In contrast, a table model electric fan has a capacity of only 300 to 1,000 cubic feet a minute. Furthermore, a table fan merely circulates and does not replace hot air.

Prevent Garage Bumps

A COUPLE of lengths of two-inch pipe set into the ground on each side of the garage entrance will prevent damage to the structure if someone drives in a little too close. The pipe, of course, will not prevent banging up the car.

New Outdoor Faucet

A NEW development in the plumbing industry is a non-freezing faucet for outside walls.

You Can Make Fine Tray With Old Picture Frame

AP Newsfeatures

A PICTURE FRAME makes a fine tray. An attractive bottom can be formed in various ways. One is a clear glass pane secured by thin molding on the back. Or a colorful picture can be used under the glass. By using a backing of tempered hardboard you can lay colorful tiles or a sheet of marbled plastic for the bottom—plastic laminate of the kitchen counter type.

Gordon Oberg, industrial designer, suggests using an unfinished modern frame of oak or ash in required size. His instructions for finishing such a frame follow.

SAND THE BARE wood smooth with fine production paper and dust thoroughly. For a pickled finish, apply a coat of white shellac enamel, dip a rag in alcohol and rub off the surplus, leaving the pigment in the pores of the wood.

When this has dried, rub it lightly with fine steel wool and dust it again. Then apply two coats of 3-pound pure white shellac, cut half and half with alcohol. Let the last coat dry overnight.

This finish is then sanded lightly with very fine production paper and dusted. A thin coat of good paste wax is then put on and let dry for at least an hour. Then buff and you have a professional looking finish.

Painting Wallboard

NEW WALL board must have all nail heads and cracks filled, all joints covered with special tape, before being painted. The wall board is then ready to be sized and primed.

Prevent Paint Failure!

WIL-BOND before Repainting

A glossy varnished or enameled surface should be cleaned and dulled before repainting. It's easy with WIL-BOND. Just dampen a rag with this liquid and rub down the surface. Off come wax, grease and dirt—and the gloss is thoroughly dulled. The new finish spreads smoothly and adheres perfectly—no danger of a streaky, unsightly result.

Entrance Hallway Should Be Cheerful

THE ENTRANCE hall should carry a cheerful welcome to the home. This means it should be bright with light and color.

Light it with an overhead fixture containing an electric bulb of 60 or 75 watts. For walls and floors, use light colors harmonizing with those in rooms opening off the hallway. If the house is decorated informally, the hall should be informal; if the house is formal, the hall should be in keeping.

Unless the hall is unusually large, furniture should be kept to a minimum. A few small pictures in cheerful colors will add interest. The family initial or monogram inset into the floor gives a final touch of individuality and distinction.

Light Bicycles Back In Great Demand; Two-Wheelers In Comeback Across Nation

By Raymond Wilcox
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — After a lapse of 50 years, the light bike craze is again sweeping the nation. The dream of almost every boy, and many an adult, today is to obtain a speedy, light bicycle. Most prefer a foreign make.

It is questionable, however, whether the new bike fad will approach in numbers or intensity the golden age of the bicycle around 1900 when the two-wheelers clogged the nation's highways and byways.

HOWEVER, while it lasts it is bringing joy to the youngsters, happiness to foreign manufacturers, and woe to their American competitors.

So many light foreign-made bikes are flooding the country, that domestic concerns are up in arms. They have appealed to the Commerce department for aid against the foreign competition and have received a promise that the matter will be presented to President Eisenhower and his Cabinet.

AMERICAN kids have gotten a sudden yen for lightweight bikes. It is indicative of the American urge for speed and more speed. The figures tell the story. In 1949, only 16,000 bicycles were imported. In 1953, the imports totaled 600,000 and they sold almost as fast as they were put on sale. The estimate this year is that 900,000 foreign bicycles will be sold in the United States.

When one considers that American manufacturers produce from 1,800,000 to 2,200,000 bicycles, the cause for their concern is self-evident.

One of the reasons the foreign importations are so popular is that they are cheaper than the American product. A popular American bicycle of the heavier type, with balloon tires and all accessories, retails for about $75, although others can be had as low as $45.

THE 36-POUND bicycle, which is the standard light American bike, retails for about $55. Its equivalent foreign make can be purchased in the United States anywhere from $40 to $50.

In addition, foreign light bikes appear to have a reputation in the United States which the domestic product has yet to match. This may be because the foreign manufacturer has been in the business longer, and on a larger basis, than his American counterpart.

To Americans, whose mass production industries have given the United States industrial ascendancy, it comes as something of a shock to learn that European manufacturers have a wide edge when it comes to making bicycles.

ONE ENGLISH firm puts out more bicycles than all its American competitors, although the American bike industry is a half billion-dollar business and employs 80,000 persons.

European manufacturers go in for mass production. This is largely because bicycles in Europe provide many with a standard means of getting about, while in the United States bicycling is largely a pastime.

Europeans originated the idea for a lightweight bicycle equipped with three-speed gears and a hand brake. Now that American youths have become light bike conscious, they're cashing in on their foresight.

AMERICAN manufacturers would like the government to do two things. One, they want the present 7½ per cent duty increased. It was once 30 per cent. Second,

In Granddad's day the bicycle built for two was pretty sharp stuff.

they seek a limitation on the number of bicycles that can be imported.

Some 50 years ago, when American manufacturers didn't have to worry too much about foreign competition, a good light bike could be had for $39 to $59.

It is interesting to note the similarities in price a half century ago with those in effect now. The Winchester, a popular 22-pound bicycle, was sold in 1896 by the George Hasbrouck company, of New York, its makers, for $59.

THE HERALD Cycle company, of New York, offered similar makes for $39 to $49. Then, as now, there were also more expensive makes. The Royal sold in 1896 for $100, the Elmore $75, the Ferris $65, and the L. A. W. $55, to name but a few of the more popular makes of that era.

Bill Boosts Payments To Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Veterans Committee yesterday approved a compromise measure to boost compensation payments for veterans and their dependents. House leaders scheduled the bill for a vote today.

The measure will add 109 million dollars annually to the payments. It is a compromise of a more liberal bill approved some time ago by the committee and blocked by the GOP leadership because of its high cost, an estimated 230 million dollars the first year.

The compromise would grant a 5 per cent boost in compensation payments for service-connected disabilities at an estimated annual cost of 60 millions.

IT WOULD raise monthly compensation payments to widows without children from $75 to $87, and for a dependent parent from $60 to $75. In cases where two parents are living, payments would be hiked from $35 to $40 each. The estimated cost of the dependency increases is $40,700,000 annually.

The committee deleted from the bill provisions for increases in pensions to veterans who have no service-connected disabilities. It is expected to recommend a 5 per cent increase in pension payments in a separate bill.

Bond Sales Show Rise During June

SALE OF SERIES E and H United States Savings Bonds reached $50,956 in Monroe County during June, as opposed to $41,550 reached during the same month last year. In Pike County the total was $7,547 this June; $1,950 last June. In Wayne County it was $27,218, compared with last year's $34,468. Pennsylvania as a whole increased its sales by more than 12.6 per cent during the period.

IN A six-months total, the state sales amounted to more than $216 million for the January-June period this year, a gain of 8.3 per cent over sales for the first half of 1953.

Sales of U. S. Savings Bonds throughout the nation set the best sales record for the first six months of any year since 1945.

Ray S. Tannehill, State chairman, U. S. Savings Bonds Committee for Pennsylvania, pointed out that Series H Bonds, when held to maturity, bear an average yearly interest of 3 per cent. Interest on these bonds is paid semi-annually by Treasury check, and they are redeemable at face value.

Both series H and E are available through all banks and through employers in the state and nation.

Mrs. Roosevelt Takes Exception To Book Remark

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says it's ridiculous to contend that her late husband knew in advance of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Adm. Robert A. Theobald, in his recent book, "The Final Secret of Pearl Harbor," wrote that President Roosevelt knew of the attack and failed to notify military commanders in Hawaii.

In her regular column in McCall's magazine, Mrs. Roosevelt writes: "I am quite certain my husband did not know about Pearl Harbor in advance."

"Notification to the people in the field would have come from the military generals anyway, and not directly from my husband. But to suppose that he knew and deliberately withheld such information from the people in command is simply ridiculous, and many people who saw him the day of the attack will corroborate my statements that he was shocked and horrified, as well as surprised."

Keep Flowerpots Clean On Outside

Flowerpots in which plants are growing should be kept clean on the outside to keep their pores open. One reason why the roots of potted plants seek the outside of the rootball is the greater supply of oxygen available in that zone. Removal of the green scum requires the use of a good stiff brush and a final rinse with clean water.

Several companies of the ancient Egyptian armies had their own standards such as animals, boats, fans or other emblems raised on a staff.

Oil Injures Tile

Allies Face Further Troubles Unless They Proceed With SATO Organization In S. E. Asia

By J. M. Roberts Jr.

THE DECISION at Geneva to partition Vietnam has many parallels with the decision at Munich which gave Czechoslovakia to Hitler.

Overwhelming in the long run was the hard fact that the Free World was not in position to wage an all-out defense of Indochina without running the very grave risk of a general war, and a general war in Asia which was the last thing it was in a position to undertake.

WHEN THE Russians were found to have mobilized a powerful expeditionary force too near Japan, choices had to be made which were just as bitter as the choices given France and Britain in 1938.

There is, however, one vital difference between the Allied position then and now—that is, there is a difference if the Allies go ahead with their plans for Southeast Asia.

When Chamberlain returned to London in 1938 he spoke publicly of "peace in our time." But his "umbrella salute" was to become the symbol of retreat, and an invitation to new Hitler aggression.

PRIVATELY, Chamberlain was saying with determination that Czechoslovakia was the last retreat. Personally, he permitted publication of the thought. But Britain and France would not make it official, and Hitler went ahead with his plans for Poland.

As a result, mankind poured out more of its blood and dissipated more of its riches than it ever had in like case before.

In those days, Britain and France clung to the hope that Hitler would keep a bargain.

NOW THE Allies are dealing with an enemy which has demonstrated time after time and almost without exception that it will not keep a bargain, and there is less chance of retreat into false security.

Britain, France and the United States are reported agreed that they must now go ahead in Southeast Asia with a twin for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Where Britain and France, hoping, would not express official and public doubt of Hitler's good faith, the Western Allies are now expressing it openly with regard to the latest enemy.

THE OBJECT is to avoid, as Europe has avoided since 1948, being faced with another decision such as that regarding Indochina.

So far, the Communists have not challenged real strength and determination, nor moved in the face of such an ultimatum as is represented by NATO.

The Communists are, however, establishing another, festering sore similar to those of Germany, Austria and Korea. If an end to the last postwar shooting produces any complacency among the Allies, if they do not go through with SATO, then more and greater trouble will not be long in coming.

Water Leaks Expensive And Annoying

Water leaks are expensive. A dripping faucet allowed to go unrepaired or unreplaced soon would cost plenty, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

The "bloop, beep" of dripping faucets can be heard in one out of 15 homes, the bureau estimates. Faucet "drips" is annoying as well as expensive.

The steady dripping of water on plumbing fixtures often causes a stain which is difficult if not impossible to remove.

Since it is usually the hot-water faucet which is dripping, the waste of hot water causes unnecessarily high fuel bills for water heating.

Another important factor is the need for water conservation in many sections of the country. While the water table has been dropping

Fresh Air Guest Bac For 4th Year

At least one little Fresh Air Child will enjoy Monroe County's sunshine this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith, of West Fourth St., East Stroudsburg, have received word that Beatrice Hayes, 11, will be arriving on the 12:30 train today to spend the remainder of the summer as their guest.

This is the fourth straight summer that Beatrice has been a member of the Smith family. She first came when she was 7 years old. Through the years, she has won a warm place in the family circle which includes the Smith's own children, 8 and 5.

"The hardest part of the summer visit," Mrs. Smith said yesterday, "is letting Beatrice go in the fall. She's a wonderful little girl, and we couldn't think of a summer without her."

Mrs. Smith was also wondering whether any of the other Fresh Airs of previous years were returning. There has been no campaign to interest local people in having Fresh Air guests this year, and any children who may come would do so through personal arrangements between the hosts and the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

At the height of the local interest in Fresh Air children, there were more than 160 children coming to Monroe County by special train.

High point of the trip for Joan was the two days of swimming in the Gulf of Mexico at Clearwater.

The baby was born at the General Hospital on December 22, 1953. His mother was the former Ruth Marie (Sally) Pentland. Kenneth's father is serving in the U. S. Army at Okinawa. Mrs. Repsher and the baby plan to join him there early in September. They will sail from Seattle, Washington, on August 27.

Antique Show Cafeteria Group Meets

The committee in charge of planning for the cafeteria to be run in conjunction with the Pocono Mountains Antique Show will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Marsh, Anconink St., to map out details of the project. Mrs. George Hauser is co-chairman with Mrs. Marsh of the committee.

The Antique Show, sponsored each year by the General Hospital Auxiliary for the benefit of the hospital, will be held this year August 3 through 6, at the Armory in East Stroudsburg. As in previous years some of the most important dealers in the East will exhibit their wares.

The cafeteria is conducted in the basement, each day of the show, not only for the benefit of the exhibitors, but also of those who visit the show. Sandwiches, coffee and light lunches are served by the members of the auxiliary.

College Men In Short-Cut To Fashion

AP Newsfeatures — College men are embroiled these days in another fad, and the coeds aren't exactly happy about it.

This one, rampant at the University of Oklahoma, involves the wearing of Bermuda shorts on nearly every social occasion. And it threatens to attain the popularity of those distinguished academic pursuits of other years: goldfish swallowing and panty raiding.

The fad got underway when dashing South African exchange students, with their British accent and customs, introduced their tropical dress to Oklahoma.

On the South African students, like swimming star Peter Duncan and National AAU broad jump king Neville Price, shorts look good. But the rule among non-athletes is knobby knees, hairy legs and bony ankles—hardly a combination to make a coed's heart throb.

Undaunted, OU males have seized on the hot-weather fashion as a means of asserting their individualism.

One self-styled social leader flatly declares shorts to be proper for any event except funerals and weddings. And the short pants are said to be in style at some weddings.

Saved-off tuxedos are the rage at formal dances.

To the girls, dubious about the new style, a plain-speaking lad says it's high time the shorts were put on the stronger sex. Shorts get a man a lot of attention, he points out.

A recent fraternity rush trip to Durant, where the short pants haven't yet taken hold, caused a minor scandal. The bare-kneed boys were the talk of the town.

A certain amount of ridicule is the lot of anyone who embraces the upward trend of trousers, but one advocate has the answer.

"When anyone laughs at me," he explains, "I just laugh back. That really flows them, because they know why they're laughing but don't know why I'm laughing."

Neither does he.

The suave gentlemen from South Africa are a little appalled at the direction the trend has taken. One predicts it won't last long.

"How can it?" he asks. "Since belts are not supposed to be worn with Bermuda shorts, there's bound to be a letdown sooner or later."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Never did I think I'd be grateful for a shower for a dog, but I certainly was. At least it was something a little different. There's something missing from this summer and I can't quite decide what it is.

Oh rain is missing. I know, or if I didn't the long faces on my gardening friends would tell me. It isn't just the wasted seeds and labor, but the cost of the fertilizer and the bug spray and such non-productive results that has them mourning.

It may have no connection with the drought, but have you noticed the scarcity of Japanese beetles this year? If they're getting thirsted out for lack of water that's one good thing.

But to get back to what's missing from this summer in the Poconos, one thing might be that we no longer have all the excitement of the Fresh Airs arriving—only one that I've heard of in comparison with the 150 or so who used to come.

And another thing that used to make a lot of news was the big county-wide Horse Show with who was sitting in whose box and all the rest. I was going to say that what was lacking was a big county-wide enterprise.

But we do have one coming up—that East Stroudsburg High-Lights and Festival of Celebrities on August 15. Seems as if we could wangle a woman's angle there somewhere.

Visit Of French Heroine To Dramatize Nurse Shortage

By Jane Eads

Washington—Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, Republican congresswoman from Ohio, says the prospective visit of the famed French nurse, Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, heroine of Dien Bien Phu, would aid in dramatizing the great shortage of nurses in this country.

Mrs. Bolton introduced a resolution in Congress to invite the intrepid young nurse to visit the United States. She says it was the first time in the history of Congress such action was taken.

The Ohio representative long has been interested in the nursing profession and during the war introduced the Bolton Act, which established the Cadet Nurse Corps and provided a government subsidy for graduate and undergraduate students in nursing training.

In 1942 she was active in the passage of a bill by Congress equalizing the pay of Army nurses with that of officers of like rank.

Italian Ambassador Tarchiani, a party guest at Fort Myer, Va., of the Army chief of staff, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, looked out with amazement over the beautifully tended green lawns and big shady trees.

"You call this a fort?" he asked his host. "In Europe a fort is not pretty. Most often it is grim and unsightly. This is like a beautiful park. Ft. Myer! This fabulous America."

Mrs. Koo, wife of the Chinese ambassador, has gone to France to reclaim the beautiful Paris residence which was taken from her during the occupation days of World War II.

Fall Hats Will Cover The Head

Hats will be hats this fall. Bigger, deeper, covering the head, they have a new importance and a breezy, casual air that does with the new relaxed silhouette of dresses and suits.

The deep, head-hugging cloche of the flapper era is back with a bang, in many versions and a wide range of lavish materials, ranging from fur to satin.

The slouch-brim felt hat also is slated for wide popularity, with wider brims appearing also on other less casual silhouettes.

White and pastel satin hats in all shapes and sizes are shown for daytime wear with tweeds. Colors are important, with all shades of red, tangerine, gold and mauve being seen, in addition to the always popular neutrals and black.

Milliners are agreed — it's a season of "hatter" hats.

Return To Gap For Honeymoon 50 Years Later

Delaware Water Gap—Returning to the place where they spent their honeymoon fifty years ago Rev. and Mrs. C. Yerkes of Berwin, Pa., returned to Delaware Water Gap to celebrate their anniversary. They had spent their honeymoon at the former Water Gap House, which burned many years ago.

Rev. Mr. Yerkes is now pastor of the Weland Presbyterian Church at Frazer. Their one-night trip was brightened by the fact that they came in just as Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gehm were entertaining members of the Delaware Water Gap Women's Society of Christian Service and their husbands at a lawn picnic. Rev. and Mrs. Yerkes joined the group who helped them celebrate the golden wedding anniversary.

Babysitters Add To Revenue By Typing

Teen-agers seeking part-time summer jobs have found a new and lucrative source of revenue in typing manuscripts and business letters at home.

According to a recent youth survey, many babysitters bring along their portable typewriters. In large cities they can earn $1.25 an hour if they are fast workers; smaller towns rate $1 an hour; new typists 50 or 60 cents an hour.

This is a profitable field for school girls who used to be crowded out of the part-time jobs by males who mowed lawns, cleaned furnaces, delivered newspapers and washed cars.

Hardest part of the job is getting the work, but a number of bright girls have reported results by advertising in local and school newspapers, persuading their fathers to bring home extra work from the office, or personally visiting local business firms. Several communities even have typing clubs.

College girls and rapid typists prefer themes and manuscripts for which they generally are paid 25 cents for a double space page.

Others add to their allowances by typing envelopes, bills, receipts, file cards and letters.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

It's Mae in July back in our corset department, and as far as I'm concerned Mae Smith and Mae Coffman are two dummies to be skirted wisely unless you're in a corset buying mood. In my case, it's a Scandale they're trying to sell me, and they lose no opportunity to put in a good word for their product.

"Honestly," says one Mae, "I never saw anything fit so perfectly as a Scandale, and the way they adapt themselves in the bustline to the individual figure is amazing." Whereupon the other takes up the refrain with, "It surely is—and they're so sleek and smooth. That's because they distribute the flesh evenly—no rolls at top or bottom."

They're right, I know that. I've heard it from Scandale wearers, who tell of pulling in their belt two notches after being fitted. And so, I agree with the two Maes and their assistant, Rae Hurtz, that a Scandale is—how do they say it? Oh yes, aMAEZing!

My experience with elephants has been unfortunate for the most part, but they still fascinate me. I'll never forget my terror when, as a teenage reporter, I was assigned to the Tom Mix circus to interview the boss, and became so impressed I walked spang into the side of a tethered Jumbo while lost in my daydreams. Two lessons were learned in that moment: one, that I could retreat faster than I ordinarily approached, and two, that elephant hide is as rough as sandpaper, somewhat smelly, and full of crevices to which straw clings.

A few years later, while watching the elephants raising the huge Barnum and Bailey tent at Schenectady, I had the disquieting misfortune of having warm water sprayed over me by one surly fellow who pointed his trunk as deliberately as if it had been a Flit spray and I a mosquito. I suppose he could have been the same fellow encountered earlier. In any case, he was obviously disapproving of me.

Despite all this, I like the big beasts, particularly when they are carved from ivory and stand on teakwood bases as do the new arrivals in our gift department. Miniature works of art, these promise good fortune to their owners because of those trunks held gracefully in the air.

Also from Hong Kong come carved ivory Buddhas, with benign round faces, bald heads, and nude tummies. It's difficult to regard these as religious objects, but they are collectors' items to be sure. Fact is, they're Buddhalful... just Buddhalful!

Reviewer Heaps Praise On Producer, Actors For Fine Work In Farce 'See How They Run'

By Leonard Randolph
MOUNTAINHOME. — Of all the types of theater comedy, the farce is very likely the most difficult to play. Filled with coincidence, founded in improbability and smugly disregarding common sense, farce-comedy presents a no-holds-barred challenge to the director and his cast.

"See How They Run" is farce in its most added state. In its current production at Pocono Playhouse it is also the finest example this reviewer has seen in years of how much an inspired director (John O'Shaughnessy) can do for a play which is basically a prolonged trifle.

WORKING WITH brilliant actors, O'Shaughnessy has turned Philip King's occasionally tedious play into a riotous free-for-all of hilarity. He has borrowed a few tricks from the slapstick handbag of such farcical masters as the Keystone Kops, Keaton and Noel Coward, the latter in his more uncivilized moments.

More important than the tricks used, however, is O'Shaughnessy's own knowledge of how long a given gag will play, how to build for laughs from one situation to another and how to stage a play at such terrific speed that neither audience nor actors will have a chance to see the shaly frame. In "See How They Run" the laughs overlap like intricate pieces in a patchwork quilt. The basic situation is funny, but the play defies description in capsule form. Summarizing the plot could best be compared to an attempt to translate "Jahberwocky" into Hungarian.

LIKE "STALAG 17" and "The Snow Girl," "See How They Run" is not for should not be a "star vehicle." There is little room in a farce for the arbitrary disruption of the play's mechanics so that one man may strut his comic stuff. For this reason—the play is extremely fortunate in having Jeffrey Lynn as its male lead. Lynn is thoroughly likeable and ingratiating; he stays in character from beginning to end and gives the play a comic fullness it sorely needs. A fine actor who is apparently capable of following excellent direction, Lynn could hardly be better.

A major portion of the comedy lines in the play fall to members of the distaff side—especially a stodgy, snooty old-maidish parishioner. As the gossip, frustrated woman who has sported a crush on the village vicar for years, Jean Stapleton is giving the funniest in a long line of highly humorous performances. By holding to the stiff line of laughter, all the while making her character completely believable, Miss Stapleton proves conclusively that she is one of the ablest actresses around these days. She can do more for a play with a pair of pursed lips than a great many "actresses" could hope to do with the dance of the seven veils.

ANGELA PATON is equally good in the part of the sly, somewhat morose housemaid. She plays her man-crazy, uniform-happy character, apparently operating on black-market brains, with a dedicated, sincere vengeance.

Most of the other actors are on a par with Lynn, Stapleton and Paton. William Weaver plays the most non-comic role (Vicar Toop) with a studious simplicity which is perfect in contrast to the remainder of the characters. Sigmund Bajak hits just the right note in his portrayal of the pseudo-sinister "Connie" who escapes from a prison camp and turns the vicarage into a madhouse by swiping the vicar's clothes off his back. Burton Mallor is an ideally mild-mannered Vicar Humphrey, and Joe Graham brings professional authority to his brief scenes as a police sergeant. Since I have often been a dissenter in the ranks against the performances of Tony Dowling, the record should be amended again at this point. For my money, Dowling is giving his best performance to date in "See How They Run." It is a relaxed, well-controlled portrayal which holds great humor; he seems at ease with the part and the play, a quality which has often been lacking in the past. He is fine.

THIS, BY A process of elimination, brings us to Miss Jean Perkinson who plays the major female role. Miss Perkinson is, I think, a talented girl. She is also a potentially good actress.

Her performance in "See How They Run" perplexed me at first, annoyed me secondly and exasperated me thoroughly before the play was done. Apparently working on the theory that her part calls for S-E-X in neon lights, Miss Perkinson has reduced the play's one credible role to a shambles. The part is that of a former actress, now a vicar's wife. Contrary to the opinion of some, few sexy actresses spend their time offstage doing adolescent imitations of Mae West. Certainly not the kind of actresses who would be led by whatever delusion into marrying a vicar in a small town.

Miss Perkinson does have some good moments in the play. She is at her best when she ceases flinging herself about like Theda Bara. During the course of the play's one-week run, I am sure Miss Perkinson will learn out some of the hip-wrinkles which give her present performances an air of utter disrevelment.

"SEE HOW THEY RUN" is a wonderfully funny production, thanks to the directorial genius of John O'Shaughnessy and the ministrations of a fine cast. Like all farce comedies it is a play which must (or should) be taken seriously by its actors, each of whom should believe that the character he plays really does or could exist. This is not the case with Miss Perkinson, who seems to be parodying a parody of a sultry ex-actress by wagging her hips in the fashion most people use while playing pinball machines. Both you and your family will enjoy "See How They Run," I think, purely for the sake of the laughs it will give you and I commend the production—not the script—to you highly.

RILEY

Sports Editor

One of the unsung persons behind the Eastburg Highlights and Festival of Celebrities show to be held at Memorial Stadium on Sunday, August 15, is Mike Devitt, the gentleman who handles publicity for Shawnee Inn and Country Club. Tom Waring is director of the show and Harry Obitz, head golf pro at the resort, is assistant director and the guy responsible for the entire layout of pre-show activities.

Devitt has a wide background in sports and is one of the major factors behind the local appearance of greats and near greats in the world of sports and stage and screen. Mike has been sales promotion director at Shawnee for two years and is a former executive director of the Police Athletic League in Philadelphia. He is also a former secretary of the National Police Conference on Youth activities and was the only civilian connected with the organization at the time. Other officials were from police departments throughout the nation.

Mike has 20 years experience in newspaper work, being a sports columnist and promotion figure. Devitt, a graduate of Villanova, is a former track and field champion, being a national AAU middle distance record holder. The Shawnee publicity expert also won the half-mile championship in the British Empire games. He has played professional soccer in the American League and also served as National Soccer League president. He is a former president of the Eastern Pennsylvania District of the National Football Association and is present chairman of the Pan-American Relations Committee for the U. S. Soccer Football Association.

Devitt, born in London, has played plenty of football and baseball and has traveled extensively in foreign nations as a soccer coach. The Waring-Obitz-Devitt combination is responsible for bringing the "big name" talent into the show and for the show itself for that matter. Plans are going along at a rapid clip and anyone who hasn't yet purchased his tickets for the affair better act quickly as the present 3,000 are all that will be printed.

It is quite possible that the largest crowd to ever witness a Little League baseball game in Monroe County will be on hand to watch Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg clash tomorrow night. Both won initial district contests on Monday, Stroudsburg taking the measure of Pocono, 2-1, and East Stroudsburg outlasting Bangor, 1-0.

Here's an item concerning an area team that might prove interesting and at least prove fodder for argument among the baseball experts of the area. This scribe was unable to obtain names, but here's now the situation was told to this reporter. Daleville defeated Mount Cobb, 1-0, in a Pocono Mountains Association baseball game last Sunday, but only after a bit of excitement. Daleville was nursing its one-run advantage into the late inning, when a Mount Cobb batter drilled the ball over the distant center field fence for what appeared to be a home run.

The batter took his time moving around the bases, thinking that the game was deadlocked and all was well. But, the alert Daleville center fielder vaulted over the fence, retrieved the ball and hurled it home to catch the runner at the plate. The umpire ruled the batter out and Daleville went on to win. There it is, just how the story was told to me. There may be special ground rules to govern the situation, but it still should be worth some comment.

A slight change was made in the original pattern of poles for the new lighting system now under construction at Memorial Stadium. The change was made so as to make it possible to construct a baseball diamond on the field in future years. The move was made without the smallest loss of lighting power, so this scribe has been informed. While speaking of the lighting system it might be good to point out at this time that only the 75-foot poles, six in number, arrived at Memorial Stadium last week. The two 90-foot poles are reportedly enroute from Alabama.

Al "Hannah" Morgan, former star with the Lake Harmony entry in the Pocono Mountains League, has been named manager of the Jim Thorpe Little League All-Star team. He is also pilot of the Dodgers, defending title holder in the Jim Thorpe Little League. The grandstand at Memorial Stadium is scheduled to get a paint job in the next couple of weeks.

Varsity 'E' Membership Renames Slate Of Officers

New Plans Approved For Stadium Work

Varsity "E" Club membership last night voted unanimously to return its slate of officers to duty for another year at a meeting of the organization at Memorial Stadium.

The club lost no time in sending the official slate back into office for another year, as several important topics of business came under discussion.

Reg Flanagan was renamed president; Kirk Shaw, vice president; Tom Vervey, secretary, and Bill Hudack, treasurer.

The club definitely decided to go ahead with construction of shower rooms for both the home and visiting football teams.

Membership decided to take a short break from the stadium labors, but a work plan will be drawn up and work will resume in approximately one week.

Shifts of eight men will work each night laying concrete blocks for the shower rooms.

Anyone wishing to volunteer for one of the shifts is asked to contact any of the officers or club members to be placed on the work detail.

Members of the club and residents of East Stroudsburg have been working on concrete flooring under the stadium grandstand for the past month and work on this portion of the project is virtually finished.

The membership voted to finish as much of the project as possible by Sunday, August 15, when the Eastburg Highlights and Festival of Celebrities will be held. The show is being featured in an effort to raise $15,000 for a permanent lighting system now under construction at the stadium.

East Stroudsburg school board is paying for all materials used to improve the grandstand, but labor is being donated by interested individuals.

Cardinals Nip Phillies, 4-2

St. Louis (AP)—Bunching four runs in the first inning—two of them by Ray Jablonski's triple—the St. Louis Cardinals backed up Harvey Haddix's hurling for a 4-2 victory last night over the Philadelphia Phils.

Help
Gerry Staley had to put down a ninth-inning Phillie threat to protect Haddix's 14th triumph of the years, tops in the majors.

'Little Mo' Suffers Serious Injury While Horseback Riding, May Miss Title Defense

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Tennis queen Maureen Connolly was crushed against a big cement truck while riding her horse here yesterday and so seriously injured that doctors said she would be unable to defend her U. S. Women's crown at Forest Hills, N. Y., next month.

The injury was a deep, torn laceration of her right calf.

Doctors said she would be unable to get in shape, even if no tendon was severed, in time for the national tournament, starting August 28. She has held the title three years.

"Little Mo," who will be 20 September 17, was wheeled into surgery within an hour after reaching the hospital.

She was conscious when she arrived and told Nelson Fisher,

San Diego Union sports writer and close friend, that she was riding her thoroughbred Merry-bon on a road near Mission Valley Polo Grounds.

When the mix-in-transit cement truck came along the road, the horse became frightened and reared, pinning her leg against the truck.

She was dragged or thrown from the horse.

Jack's Market Decisions Besecker's

Jack's Market, first half champion in the Monroe County Softball League, battled its way into second round play in the circuit's annual tournament last night with an 11-3 victory over Al Besecker's Diner at Stroudsburg Playground.

The Marketers missed scoring in only the fifth inning after piling up an early lead.

Big Inning
Jack's club scored two runs in each of the first two frames and then exploded for five counters in the third. The Market nine finished matters with single counters in each of the fourth and sixth innings.

Today's tournament schedule sends Town Tavern A. C. against Keiper's Laundry, at Stroudsburg Playground, at 6:30 p. m., while Empire Box and Kulp's Foundry meet at Giffels field.

Thursday's slate sends Ted Getz Clothier and Al Besecker's Diner into battle at Stroudsburg Playground, while Jack's Market and Eagles battle at Giffels field.

Shawnee Pro Placed On Golf Committee In PGA District

Philadelphia—Announcement was made yesterday by Leo Fraser, chairman of the Philadelphia Section, PGA Caddy Scholarship Fund, that the week of August 1 to 7 inclusive has been designated by his group as "Play-Your-Pro Week" throughout Eastern Pennsylvania, South Jersey and Delaware areas.

Fraser stated that more than 10,000 golfers are expected to participate in the event which is being conducted for the benefit of the Caddy Scholarship Fund.

Under the plan set up by the committee, each player upon the donation of a one dollar entry fee, will compete in 18 holes of medal play with a score established that week by his own home pro.

Receipts
Total receipts from the tourney, which is the first of its kind ever attempted by a section branch of the PGA, will go in their entirety to the fund being established by the local pros for the purpose of granting full four-year $1000 a year scholarships to worthy caddies selected by a group of outstanding golf pros.

Temporary committee in charge of the event are, in addition to Fraser, Henry Poe, Reading; Bill Boyle, Iron Rock; John Hayes, Riverton; Walter Slikworth, Rydal; Al MacDonald, Langhorne; Ed Tabor, Harrisburg; Harry Obitz, Shawnee-on-Delaware; Marty Lyons, Llanarch.

Lehigh Valley Dairy In Field

Lehigh Valley Dairy became the fourth tug-of-war team in the field for the Eastburg Highlights and Festival of Celebrities show to be held at Memorial Stadium on Sunday, August 15.

The addition of Lehigh Valley to the field was announced last night by Lew Leffer, chairman of this committee.

Four Clubs
Lehigh Valley brings the current field to four entries, including Line Material, Worthington Mower and Ronson.

Leffer feels certain that several other teams will be entered in the field within the week.

The show is being held to raise $15,000 for a permanent lighting system now under construction at Memorial Stadium.

Yankees Gain Major Verdict Over Chisox

New York (AP)—The New York Yankees put on a fine defensive display to back up an excellent clutch pitching performance by "Whitey" Ford last night as they whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-1.

It was the 13th straight night victory for the world champions. Three fast double plays and five strikeouts by Ford kept the White Sox in check as the Yanks handed Bob Keegan his fifth defeat against a dozen victories.

Two Markers
Ford scored two of the Yankee runs, coming across in the third inning with the first run, scored on a bunt, a sacrifice, an infield out and an infield hit by Mickey Mantle.

He scored again in the fifth when the Yankees drove over three runs. Chicago 000 001 000-1 8 1

Tigers Bounce A's Twice

Philadelphia (AP)—Harvey Kuenn hit a double and a grand slam homer as the Detroit Tigers scored nine runs in the first inning, then coasted to a 12-0 win over the Philadelphia Athletics last night in the opener of a two-night twin bill.

Homer
The Tigers came from behind to win the nightcap 4-3, scoring three runs in the eighth—two of them on Bill Tuttle's homer.

Twelve Detroit players went to the plate in the big inning of the first game.

Steve Souchock added to the A's downfall with a leadoff seventh-inning homer.

Baker Leads Cubs To Nod Over Dodgers

Chicago (AP) — Pitcher Jim Hughes' fumble of a toss at first base for the third out in the 10th inning enabled Gene Baker, who doubled, to score the winning run as the Chicago Cubs defeated Brooklyn 3-2 yesterday.

The victory gave the Cubs a 2-1 series edge as Paul Minner, pitching his eighth victory, became the third southpaw to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Pete Wojciechowski, who took over in the seventh after starter Erv Faubus was sidelined for a pinch batter, was the victim of Hughes' defensive blunder which cost the 31-year-old rookie his first major league loss.

One Out

There was one out in the first extra inning when Baker crashed his second double. After Deo Fondy was purposely passed, Hughes was called in from the bullpen to replace Wojciechowski.

Randy Jackson fled to "Duke" Snider for the second out, and then Manager Walter Alston switched outfielder Carl Furillo and "Junior" Gilliam as Ralph Kiner came to bat.

Kiner then dribbled a weak grounder to Gil Hodges, who fielded the ball cleanly and tossed to Hughes, who was covering first base. Hughes, however, fumbled the toss and Baker raced home with the winning run.

Baker scored all three of the Chicago runs. He also collected four hits in five turns and stole home to complete a double steal with Fondy in the third.

Both teams scored a run in the first. The Dodgers used three singles by Pee Wee Reese, Hodges, and Furillo for their run, a feat the Cubs matched when Baker doubled and Jackson tripled.

Brooklyn fashioned a 2-2 dead lock in the eighth when Snider singled, and went all the way to third on "Hank" Sauer's fumble of the recovery. Then Hodges grounded out to the nudge mark.

Giants Take Advantage Of Breaks To Win In 13th, 2-1

Cincinnati (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds' defense sagged twice in the 13th inning yesterday and the New York Giants pushed over the run that gave them a 2-1 victory. A single, two errors and "Whitey" Lockman's long fly accounted for the winning tally.

Lockman's fly scored Joe Amalfitano from third. Amalfitano had gone in to run for Bobby Hofman after Hofman had singled to second on Jim Greengrass' error. He moved to third when "Rocky" Bridges booted Johnny Antonielli's bounder.

The only run Antonielli allowed was a fifth inning homer by Ted Kluszewski and until the eighth it looked as if that was going to be enough for Art Fowler, the Reds' starting hurler.

The Giants knotted the score there, however, on Don Mueller's double and successive singles by Willie Mays and pinch hitter "Dusty" Rhodes.

Defending Champ Likes Kroll In PGA

St. Paul, Minn. (AP) — Defending champion Walter Burkemo took issue with the experts yesterday and named lightly-regarded Ted Kroll as the man to beat for the Professional Golfers Association title during the next week.

"I'm not discounting my own chances of repeating because I'm playing well," the moon-faced Franklin, Mich., pro said, "but it I had to name the man I fear most it would be Kroll."

"Ted is murderous with the wedge and is putting great. This is the course that favors a man who is master of the wedge."

"There is a lot of talk of Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff. They are great hitters and dangerous on a long, tough course. But they'll be just two other players here."

The first round of the 36-hole on-the-scene qualifying begins over the sun-parched Keller course today.

Stan Dudas, assistant pro at Shawnee-on-Deleware, is a member of the National PGA field.

Orioles Seek Base

Baltimore (AP) — Arthur Ehlers, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, left for Tarpon Springs, Fla., yesterday to survey the town as a possible training site for the American League baseball team next year.

Newfoundland Falls Before Hawley, 8-5

Newfoundland—Hawley rallied for five runs in the sixth inning here last night and scored an 8-5 victory over the Newfoundland Cubs in a Wayne County Junior League baseball game.

The Cubs were apparently coasting to a 5-3 decision before Hawley demonstrated its power in one big burst.

Hawley's win was its fourth in six outings, while Newfoundland now sports a mark of two victories and four setbacks.

Early Lead
The visiting team vaulted into a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but the Cubs came back to even matters with two counters in the bottom of the second.

Hawley picked up one more marker in the fourth, but Newfoundland seemed to have the contest well in hand after scoring three times in the home half of the fourth round.

The visiting nine took advantage of several Newfoundland errors to open its five-run sixth frame. Newfoundland committed a total of eight errors in the contest.

Bob Lupcho allowed Hawley only six hits, but eight boots in the field was too much of an obstacle to overcome.

Newfoundland accounted for only five safeties, all singles.

Stanky Draws Suspension Of Five Days For Major Part In Cardinals-Phillies Conflict

St. Louis (AP)—Eddie Stanky, fiery manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, yesterday drew a five-day suspension for his stalling tactics in a game against the Philadelphia Phils which erupted into a general free-for-all Sunday.

The Cardinal manager also was fined $100 after a special hearing in St. Louis yesterday by Warren Giles, president of the National League.

Manager Terry Moore of the Phils, who was in the midst of the fighting, came off scot free in Giles' ruling. During the hearing, it was brought out, Moore said he raced onto the field in an effort to restore peace.

Giles also upheld forfeiture by the Phils of "Babe" Pinelli of the riotous second game of the double-header here Sunday to the Phils because of stalling by Stanky.

"We will not condone unreasonable delays in games," Giles said.

Stanky said his wife and friends had been telling him there was a difference between being a player and a manager.

The league president said both Yvars and Torgeson were guilty "but Yvars, by dropping his glove and mask, ready to fight, contributed to a delay of the game which already had been delayed too much."

All of the suspensions were effective yesterday.

Pitcher Ellis "Cot" Deal of the Cardinals, who had been suspended temporarily with Stanky, Yvars and Torgeson pending the hearing yesterday, escaped further action.

Giles said a misunderstanding of league rules by the Cardinals was a factor in the forfeit of the game. The Cardinals understood the lights could not be turned on because the game had started after 6 p. m. Giles said that under a new league rule the lights could have been turned on.

Bath Takes Measure Of Johnsonville

Johnsonville—Bath moved into seventh place in the Blue Mountain League last night by defeating Johnsonville, 1-1. The contest was played on the losing club's home field.

Bath put the contest on ice with a pair of big innings, scoring five times in the first frame and four times in the visiting half of the sixth.

The visiting contingent also picked up single runs in both the fourth and fifth innings.

Line Score
Johnsonville escaped a shutout by picking up its lone marker in the bottom of the seventh and final inning.

Tom Struss homered for one of the Bath runs, while Phil Bollman and Francis Sliffls chipped in with run producing triples.

Bath banged out 18 hits against two Johnsonville hurlers, while the home contingent accounted for only five safeties off Stan Dech.

Last night's victor has a mark of five wins and 14 defeats at the present time, while Johnsonville has won five of 21 games played thus far this season.

Situation May Turn Critical From Drought

HARRISBURG (AP)—The U. S. Weather Bureau yesterday minimized the seriousness of below-normal rainfall in the southeastern Pennsylvania area, but county agents warned the situation could become critical.

"The situation in the area is not out of the ordinary," a bureau spokesman contended.

But in a weekly weather-crop summary issued jointly by the bureau and the State Agriculture Department the rainfall in the southeastern counties was reported as totaling only 51 per cent of normal for the week ending yesterday.

THE STATEWIDE average was 80 per cent of normal. A normal rainfall average for the week, the bureau said is 98 of an inch.

Meanwhile, at Doylestown, William Greenwalt, Bucks County agent, said "Dairy farmers have had to start dry feeding with grass silage and hay. There is no feed off the pasture. The corn crop will not amount to much unless we get rain pretty quick."

The crop survey contended "Corn is growing nicely in most areas and early fields in the south are in tassel."

FARM EXPERTS declined to comment whether the prospects this year were for a drought such as seriously impaired last year's production in all but the earliest crops.

Last year rainfall in the state from April through mid-July was heavier than normal, averaging 14.6 inches. The drought came from mid-July until early November with only one brief break of wet weather.

For the same period this year rainfall has totaled 12.1 inches—one inch below the normal average for the period. Most of the decrease has been recorded in the southeastern counties.

MEANWHILE, the water supply situation for the Blythe Twp. Water Authority was reported growing critical. The authority serves water to about 20,000 persons in the central Schuylkill County area. One of its reservoirs was reported dry and four others extremely low.

The rest of the county was considered in good shape from the water supply standpoint.

Store Council Plans Meeting

THE COOPERATION OF chain stores with civic, agricultural and educational organizations in the Stroudsburg area will be discussed at a luncheon meeting to be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Monday, July 26.

Managers of chain stores in Stroudsburg will attend the meeting, which is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council.

Chamber of Commerce, newspaper, radio and educational officials will be invited to participate in the discussion, which will be directed by Loyal D. Odner, managing director of the council.

Republicans Name Committee Heads

HARRISBURG (AP)—William H. Worrlow Sr., of Lebanon, on Monday was appointed chairman of the Republican finance committee for the November election campaign.

The appointment was announced by Miles Horst, state GOP chairman, who at the same time selected Herbert L. Sorg, of St. Mary's, former speaker of the State House of Representatives as chairman of the platform committee.

Worrlow, a steel foundry president, had been executive vice chairman of the GOP finance committee in the 1950 and 1952 elections. He succeeds Philip Sharpless, Philadelphia, who resigned. Sorg, an attorney and assistant to the president of an industrial firm as well, served six terms in the state house.

Democrats Seek Platform Ideas

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Democratic party fixed Aug. 17-18 for public hearings here to receive recommendations for its election platform for November.

"It is our hope that all interested organizations, who have any recommendations regarding matters to be included in the Democratic state platform will ask to present their views at these hearings," said former U. S. Sen. Francis J. Myers, platform committee chairman.

"We have subcommittees already working on drafts of the various platform planks, and we want to be sure that we have the benefit of the best thinking in the state regarding the problems of our state government."

Schmidt Sees Radar Use On Highways

HARRISBURG (AP)—A prediction that Pennsylvania eventually will legalize the use of radar as evidence in highway speeding prosecutions came from Highways Secretary E. L. Schmidt yesterday.

"We've got to do it some time," Schmidt said, explaining that chasing speed law violators is getting out of hand.

Police now have to travel at such speeds to catch violators that they in turn "set up a hazard on the highways," Schmidt said.

MEANWHILE, Col. C. M. Wilhelm, State Police commissioner, said that his department has been gathering data for some time on the use of radar on the highways.

At present, the device is used only experimentally. Three crews of State Police on the Pennsylvania Turnpike are checking the speeds of passing vehicles. When a speeder is detected, police ahead are alerted for a chase by means of radio-telephone.
